No. Viet Nam Invasion Out

. . . RUSK REPORTS

Washington (AP)— Secretary of State Dean Rusk dumped cold water Thursday on the idea of invading Communist North Viet Nam now. He said "No miracle in the north" is going to wipe out the Red guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Rusk rejected also Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen's description of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy as an enigma. He disclosed the administration is putting together a comprehensive document on the Viet Nam situation.

The anti-guerrilla campaign in Southeast Asia was the central topic at Rusk's 30-minute news conference. Some U.S. officials, unhappy at failure to stamp out the insurgents so far, have been urging that the war be carried north to the source of the Reds' strength.

On-The-Spot

The secretary of state noted that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be going to Saigon shortly for an on-the-spot check, after which "we shall be in a position to make a fuller assessment of just what the situation is and where we go from here."

He said that whether the campaign should be carried into Red territory "is a question for the future."

But the central problem of pacification of South Viet Nam is in South Viet Nam, and the South Vietnamese are determined to accomplish this and have the means to do it with U.S. help, he said.

As for the domestic political scene, the secretary of state said President Johnson does not want Rusk to take part in partisan political activities this election year and that fits with his own personal wishes.

Rusk will continue to make scheduled foreign policy speeches but on a national, nonpartisan basis, he said.

In taking issue with the statement by Dirksen, Rusk said "I don't believe our policy is an enigma" and a heavy flow of facts about the Viet Nam situation has been coming from Saigon and Washington.

Can Be Expected

He said that in a presidential election year criticism of foreign policy and debate about it can be expected.

On other points Rusk said:

—Additional pressures on the Castro regime to halt Cuba's subversive efforts in this hemisphere can be expected as a result of the report of the Organization of American States finding that an arms cache seized in Venezuela came from Cuba.

—Although Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai has hinted a third party might mediate U.S.-Communist Chinese differences, Rusk sees no role for mediation with Peking still refusing to honor her Geneva commitments for the independence and neutrality of the Indochina states.

—The return to Washington of disarmament chief William C. Foster does not mean an end to U.S.-Soviet disarmament discussions even though the Geneva disarmament conference is in stalemate.

BIG BLAST . . . wrecks railroad cars.

New Dynamite Blasts Hit FEC

St. Augustine, Fla. (AP) — Two more dynamite blasts staggered the Florida East Coast Railway Thursday, derailing 39 freight cars and locomotives and completely severing the road's Miami to Jacksonville rails.

"There is no question about it being sabotage," said W. L. Thornton, chief operating officer of the FEC, which has been running full freight service despite a 13-month-old strike.

President Johnson, speaking at a dinner at Miami Beach, said the violence that has battered the strike-bound railroad must stop.

Alerts FBI

The President said he was late arriving for the dinner because he had been talking with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz about the dynamiting. Johnson said he has ordered the full force of the FBI into action.

One of the FBI's chief inspectors, the President said, will head a force of 30 men to crack down on the violence.

Meanwhile, he urged both sides in the dispute to try to reach a settlement.

An early morning explosion pitched 27 cars and five locomotives from the tracks.

A few hours later, a second explosion knocked out the alternate route a few miles away and derailed seven cars. Part of the train blocked state road 207, tying up traffic for hours. The second explosion occurred about 15 miles west of St. Augustine and about 15 miles from Palatka where Johnson spoke earlier Thursday.

Authorities said there was nothing to indicate it had anything to do with the President's visit.

The FEC has counted more than 200 acts of violence in the past year and has blamed saboteurs. Only one man has been arrested and he was not brought to trial.

No Place

In Washington, G. E. Leighty, chief negotiator for the 11 nonoperating unions on strike, issued a statement after the two latest explosions.

"These acts of violence have no place in a labor dispute," he said. However, he went on, "I find it significant that this latest outrage took place less than 24 hours after Sen. Morse introduced a bill to split up the billion-dollar financial combine that controls the FEC railroad."

He referred to a bill introduced Wednesday by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., which would end the exemption of the estate of the late Alfred I. Dupont from the Bank Holding Company Act.

James Reynolds, assistant secretary of labor, has charged the man who controls the estate, Ed Ball, with "petulant" refusal to end the strike. The federal government got into the dispute because of a one-day picket line established at Cape Kennedy by the strikers. Most of the construction at the cape was stopped.

The latest two dynamitings occurred within miles of each other.

In the first, an engineer was cut by flying glass, but no crew members were injured. Cars pitched off the track and part of the train blocked traffic on State Road 207.

The railroad said two charges of dynamite exploded under the second train, 190 cars long. The first hit the engine, but it was not derailed. The second detonated about 120 cars back.

LBJ JABS CRITICS

...In 'First' All-Out Political Foray

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — President Johnson delivered Thursday night the first all-out political speech since he took over the White House. He declared that "the presidency is no place for a timid soul or a torpid spirit."

The chief executive spoke to fellow Democrats at a party rally. He made no direct mention of possible Republican opponents for the presidency, but apparently with some critics in mind the President said:

"To those who cry havoc and shout for war, we must give understanding."

The President also said, "We have always welcomed dissent. We would not muzzle disagreement."

Johnson came to Florida primarily to help Democrats make money and to make a bid for Florida's 14 electoral votes for the presidency. The state went Republican in the last three presidential elections.

On the way from Washington to Miami Beach, Johnson stopped off twice, once at Palatka 300 miles north of Miami to push a button, explode some dynamite and break ground for a $158-million barge canal that will cross the state.

Visits Joe

He paused again at Palm Beach to visit ailing Joseph P. Kennedy, the father of the late President.

In his Miami Beach text, Johnson once more embraced the programs of Kennedy and even some of those of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The principal programs and achievements of Roosevelt and other Democrats "represent the hopes and needs of the great majority of the American people — in every walk of life and in every part of the country," he said.

Only A Few

When Roosevelt spoke of the "four freedoms," Johnson said "only a few nations enjoyed these freedoms. A generation later, due in great measure to American leadership, those same freedoms flourished in other parts of the world," he said.

This nation has many basic differences with the Soviet Union, he said, "but we also believe that the Russian people desire a better life for their children. Reducing the danger of nuclear holocaust is as necessary to their national interest as it is to ours."

The President briefly listed the accomplishments of Kennedy and his administration and said he will send to Congress next week a message calling for incentive to all sectors in American society to eliminate poverty wherever it exists.

High On List

"High on the list of our objectives will be to provide jobs and training for the young," Johnson said.

He said his administration intends to press forward with legislation, education, and action "until we have eliminated the last barrier of intolerance, for as long as freedom is denied to some, the liberty of all is in danger."

In Palatka, a crowd of some 10,000 sloshed through mud to see the President open construction of the barge canal. "When this canal is completed it will start new and permanent economic growth," Johnson said. "It will accelerate business and industry. It will open up new recreation areas."

Electrical Shock Kills Lincoln Man

A 28-year-old Lincoln laborer was electrocuted late Thursday afternoon in a construction accident at the site of new University of Nebraska dormitories, 820 No. 17th.

Lybarger

Glen A. Lybarger of 2335 No. 14th was pronounced dead on arrival at Lincoln General Hospital.

DeWayne A Trumpp, 30, of Manhattan, Kan., who was working with Lybarger, was listed in satisfactory condition at Lincoln General.

The accident occurred when a cable on a large crane came in contact with a high voltage line. The cable was connected to a large bucket containing cement.

Wesley Flinn, supervisor for the Hunter-Lundberg Construction Co. of Manhattan, said Lybarger and Trumpp were "shaking the bucket to loosen some cement that was stuck" in the bottom. The shaking apparently caused the cable to vibrate and contact the line, Flinn said.

Resuscitators Used

Fire Department resuscitators were used on Lybarger and Trumpp for about 10 minutes.

The crane operator, Gordon Henderson of Hampton, was not injured, Flinn said.

The accident caused a 20-second power failure on the city-operated system in the center portion of Lincoln.

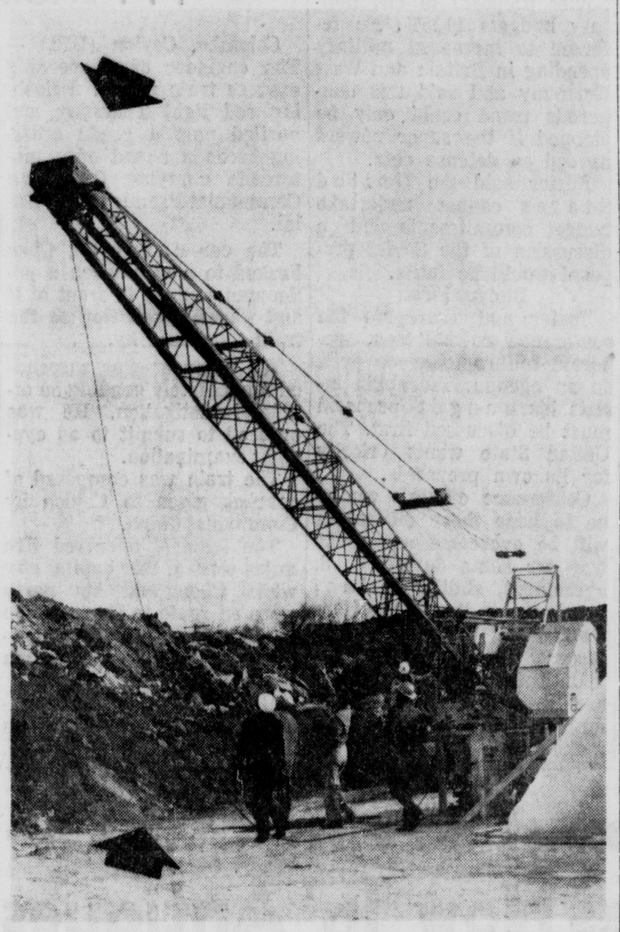

Lybarger was the second man to die while working on construction of new university dormitories. William R. Manning, 22, was killed Oct. 11, 1962, when he fell from the ninth floor of one of the Twin Towers at 640 No. 17th. The towers under construction at that time now house some 900 students.

Lybarger was a former Golden Gloves boxer and also had received awards for his skill as a fisherman. He had operated a bait and tackle shop.

Survivors include his wife, Sondra; sons, Teryn and Brad; daughter, Tonya; sister, Madonna Horacek of Lincoln; brothers, Robert of Lincoln and Loyal of Houston; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lybarger of Lincoln.

Farm-To-Store Cattle Price Spread Reviewed

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

The spread in price between the farm and the grocery store shared blame with imports and too heavy marketing weights from record numbers of cattle for the ills of the cattle industry as industry leaders surveyed the cattle situation at the Nebraska Farmers Union annual meeting Thursday.

Evidence of an 81.3% margin on beef between farm and retail sales was presented at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Farmers Union Thursday in a panel discussion of "What's Ahead in Livestock Marketing" by an official of the Denver Union Stock Yards Co.

John F. O'Dea, vice-president and assistant manager of the Denver Stockyards, said there is plenty of evidence to show the consumer is willing to pay a fair price for beef but the cattle feeder isn't benefitting under present market conditions.

He said the nearly $3 billion losses suffered by the cattle industry in the past 14 months have not brought an end to cattlemen's price losses as many feeders are now marketing their third sale of cattle that have sustained continuous losses.

O'Dea claimed that 75% of all red meat is now purchased through 11 food chains and this has all but stripped bargaining power from the seller with the packers in many instances reduced to a status of custom killers.

Using U.S. Department of Agriculture market news reports for December 1963, O'Dea said that assuming a yield of 62% on a 600-pound carcass from a choice heifer at the then average price of $21.08 per hundredweight the gross return would mean $203.99 to the farmer, $229.26 to the packer and $369.84 to the retailer.

Paul Daly, general manager of the Farmers Union Livestock Commission, Omaha, told cattlemen and farmers they must keep making a lot of noise and, "Don't let anyone lull you to sleep with a slight increase in the market."

He termed the current cattle price situation a "crisis."

A Wisner cattle feeder, Harold Dinklage, claimed that imports have been used to subsidize the packing and retail industry by allowing cheap foreign beef to be doctored up with the tallow from choice U.S. beef and sold to the public as hamburger.

Dr. James Hassler, livestock marketing specialist, University of Nebraska, called for a premium to be payed on desirable weights as a method of getting lighter cattle to market. He termed the chain stores an expanded market for beef and asked that farm organizations take a look at possible economic action in preference to stressing only political action in resolutions.

Fred Gilmore, president, Omaha Union Stockyards Co., had strong support from panel members in claiming that there was a future for the farmer feeder in the cattle business.

Cecil Emrich, Manager Norfolk Live Stock Sales Co. and a representative of the National Association of Livestock Auction Markets, said the answer to imports is exports, and "we must learn how to sell our product."

Six-Mile Salt-Wahoo Flood Plan Explained

The Salt-Wahoo Watershed District's flood control program for the six miles of Salt Creek running from about Calvert and First Streets north to the Fairgrounds was explained Thursday at the America Forward Hall to a small group of interested persons and property owners affected by the program.

Owners raised several questions, but the only real complaint came from a woman who wanted to know why the project did not include the stream bed between Pioneers Blvd. and Calvert, where she said extensive flooding occurs.

Jim Kelley, with the Army Corps of Engineers in Omaha, explained that lack of funds prevents the stream south of Calvert from being included in the present project.

Hal Schroeder, the District's general manager, said that only about 20 individual home owners will be affected by the project and commented that Lincolnites will temporarily have to do without several Salt Creek bridges.

The project generally involves rebuilding existing levees, adding several new levees, and providing new or larger drainage structures where storm water drainage from streets and other areas enters Salt Creek.

Schroeder said that the project would improve the general appearance and utility of the stream and that mosquito breeding will be curbed by better drainage provisions.

About $2 million in state and federal funds is involved in the project, which is expected to begin sometime in April and conclude next fall, according to Schroeder.

Nine Thousand Chicks Killed In Hatchery Blaze

Nine thousand chicks were killed in a fire Thursday morning at the Hill Hatchery, 6000 No. 56th.

Battalion Fire Chief Warren Miller said hatchery officials valued the chicks at about a dollar each.

Miller said the fire probably started when a heating element in a brooder rack shorted. He said the fire caused considerable damage to the interior of the building and its contents.

The building contained 12 racks of brooder chicks each holding 750 two-to-three-week-old chickens.

Reveal Rise In U.S. Arms

Geneva (AP) — The United States said Thursday its stocks of missiles—capable of carrying nuclear arms—have increased 200% during the two years disarmament talks have dragged on in Geneva.

Conceding that new efforts to get the talks moving have collapsed, U.S. negotiator William C. Foster declared that by next year U.S. strategic missile inventories "will reach approximately 750% of those in 1962."

After an appeal to the Russians to help end the disarmament stalemate, Foster left by plane for Washington to consult with his government. The Russians did not budge.

Couldn't

Foster said the United States could not overlook the security of the non-communist world in view of the Soviet buildup in nuclear arms and the lack of agreement at Geneva.

"While we negotiate, the arms race goes on," Foster told the 17-nation disarmament conference. "Levels of armaments on both sides are increasing, almost without interruption . . . especially missiles which are capable of delivering nuclear warheads over long ranges.

"For example, United States strategic missile inventories have increased more than 200% since our conference began March 1962. By 1965, these inventories will reach approximately 750% of those in 1962."

Must Try

Foster told the conference it must try to stop the nuclear buildup on both sides immediately. He appealed to Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin to enter into detailed negotiations on President Johnson's proposals to freeze missile production and development and halt the production of fissionable material for nuclear warheads.

The Soviet delegate replied: "A freeze will not have the effect of ending the arms race."

Tsarapkin insisted again that the conference begin immediate negotiations on the Soviet proposal to cut military budgets 10-15%. He referred to increased military spending in Britain and West Germany and said this dangerous trend could only be stopped if the super powers agreed on defense cuts.

Foster said the United States cannot undertake budget commitments and a discussion of the Soviet proposal would be futile.

Budget First

Foster and Tsarapkin the conference co-chairmen, reported failure to agree even on an agenda. Tsarapkin insists his budget proposal must be discussed first. The United State wants priority for its own proposals.

Conference officials continue to hope these difficulties will be overcome and make way for some Soviet-U. S. agreement, similar to last year's treaty limiting nuclear testing and the Washington-Moscow "hot-line" pact.

Until then the discussions are likely to continue as before in the form of speech making.

Viet Chief Target Of Wild Plot

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's premier-strongman told associates that French officials paid a terrorist about $1,300 to kill him Thursday on one of his trips to the countryside.

Informed sources said Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who seized power Jan. 30, reported he learned of the plot in time to call off the trip.

In a prompt denial, a spokesman for the French Embassy said "the premier must have been saying this in jest." Then in an apparent jest of his own, the spokesman mentioned the size of the purported payment and remarked: "We could have got it done cheaper."

Relations between France and this former French possession have gone down hill since President Charles de Gaulle called for neutralization of Southeast Asia, including South Viet Nam where the United States spends millions to back the war against Communist guerrillas.

A U.S. intelligence official said he had no evidence to support the assassination charge but added:

"It seems logical to assume that some French might be behind such a thing because it would further French policies, which are directed to neutralization of South Viet Nam, which Khanh opposes.

"Such a plot might be the work of some renegade French with or without official French sanction. We believe that some of the French planters here are weary of war, and are willing to help the Viet Cong (Communist guerrillas) in order to get the war over with and return to business as usual."

In seizing power from the old military junta in a bloodless coup, the 36-year-old Khanh charged some top generals had acted as French agents in a plot to neutralize South Viet Nam.

Rumors of another coup have been circulating for two weeks but outwardly at least Khanh is in firm control.

'OK FELLAS, LEAN IT THE OTHER WAY'

This is the Leaning Tower of Pisa which experts say is tilting too far. The city of Pisa, Italy, has asked the Italian government to spend more than a million dollars to tilt the tower back just a little and keep it from falling down. Tower's tilt has increased by a quarter of an inch in last 45 years. Experts say if this keeps on, the tower may not stand another 100 years.

Train Almost Hits Chou

. . . ENGINEER RACES THROUGH RED LIGHT

Colombo, Ceylon (UPI) — The engineer of a speeding express train passed a flashing red light Thursday and hurtled past a grade crossing seconds ahead of a motorcade carrying Chinese Communist Premier Chou-En-lai.

The car carrying Chou braked to a stop when a policeman jumped in front of it and waved a red flag as the train thundered by.

The engineer was suspended immediately pending an official investigation. He was ordered to submit to an eyesight examination.

The train was composed of coaches given to Ceylon by Communist China.

The incident occurred five miles west of this capital city while Chou and his party were en route to Horagolla to lay a wreath at the mausoleum of Premier Soloman Bandaranaike.

Riding with Chou were Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi and Mme. Sun Yat-sen, deputy chairman of the Chinese Communisty Party and widow of the founder of the Chinese Republic.

No one was hurt, and the motorcade continued on to Horagolla.

Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, premier of Ceylon, ordered B. D. Rampala, general manager of Ceylon's railroad system, to submit a full report.

Chou arrived here Wednesday for talks with Mrs. Bandaranaike on a wide range of Asian issues, including Peking's border dispute with India, Ceylon's nearest neighbor.

Mrs. Bandaranaike succeeded her late husband as premier.

In Tokyo, Peking's New China News Agency quoted Chou Thursday as saying he would welcome "the good offices of a third nation in arriving at an understanding with the United States."

The news agency said Chou made the statement in an interview with a Pakistani newsman in Dacca while on a tour of Pakistan.

"The root cause of the tension between China and the United States is the persistence of the U.S. government in its hostile policy towards China," Chou said.

Defense Stresses Oswald's Red Ties; 9th Juror Seated

Dallas (AP)— An electronics engineer was selected Thursday as the ninth member of the jury to try Jack Ruby for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

The trial began Feb. 17 and seven men and two women now have been accepted from among more than 100 candidates questioned. Twelve jurors are needed.

When court recessed for the night, 16 prospective jurors had been questioned during the day. The one accepted was third from the end of the list.

Texas Grad

The ninth juror is James E. Cunningham, 34, a medium-sized man with crew-cut dark hair. He was educated at the University of Texas and he obviously gained favor with the defense when he said he had taken an introductory course in psychology there. Psychological testimony is expected to form the basis of an insanity defense for the 52-year-old Ruby.

Earlier, the defense had placed renewed stress on Oswald's background, calling him a Communist assassin of the President.

Ruby faces a possible death penalty if convicted of murder with malice.

"Would you want to sit on the first jury in America to assess the death penalty for killing a Communist?" defense attorney Joe Tonahill demanded of C. B. Perkins, 26, a salesman who later was disqualified as a juror.

Sustained

Judge Joe B. Brown sustained Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade's objection and Perkins was not allowed to answer the question.

Oswald, charged with shooting President Kennedy Nov. 22, admitted being a Marxist before he himself was shot to death two days later by Ruby. As far as is known, however, he was not a member of the Communist Party.

Tonahill's question climaxed a series of references he has made in court to "the Communist Oswald." It foreshadowed one line of testimony which the defense intends to explore when it begins calling its witnesses.

It is the intent of the defense to portray Oswald as an evil and dangerous character, thus attempting to justify at least in part his death at the hands of Ruby, operator of a Dallas strip tease joint.

Both the state and the defense exercised peremptory challenges during the day to bar potential jurors from being seated without stating any reason.

The state excused Lawrence O. Greer, 25, a recent college graduate, who obviously proved tempting to the defense because of his expressed familiarity with psychiatry and abnormal psychology.

Turned Down

The defense turned down Mrs. Elizabeth B. James, a blue-eyed brunette housewife with two grown daughters who indicated some skepticism of insanity as a defense in a murder case.

The state now has 10 of its original 15 peremptory challenges left, while the defense has only three. If these are exhausted, jury candidates must be accepted unless the court disqualifies them on purely legal grounds.

British Diplomats Trade Stripes For Gray Flannel

London (AP)—Britain's diplomats are going to exchange their striped pants for gray flannel suits, go out into the market place and start serving as salesmen for their country.

Times have changed since a British ambassador could call in a gunboat to put some spice in his soft talk. This was recognized in a government-sponsored report issued Thursday.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home accepted the committee's recommendations, including a better financial deal that should help relax the stranglehold of the old-school tie and open up the Foreign Service to more bright young men without family connections or a private income.

Despite efforts to reform the service, initiated by Sir Anthony Eden 20 years ago, it still operates largely through the "old boy net"—the web of friendships formed at Britain's exclusive private schools and its two great universities, Oxford and Cambridge. The net works comfortably but is hard to break into.

"Oxbridge," as the British call the universities, supply 95% of all Foreign Service recruits, and 70% come from private schools such as Eton, Harrow and Winchester.

Douglas-Home, himself an old Etonian and former foreign secretary, told the House of Commons the government would start putting the commendations into effect as soon as possible after the new financial year begins in April.

Forget About Saving String-- Old Bottles Now 'In' Antiques

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

New York (UPI) — Stop saving string and start collecting bottles — the older the better.

Saving string's liable to tie you in knots. Amassing bottles, meanwhile, might make you rich.

Dr. Larry Freeman, a bottle collector extraordinaire, recommends especially stashing bottles for household products.

"They can't help but become valuable, since the glass container fast is being replaced by the plastic ones," he said in an interview.

Dr. Freeman dusted off a few hundred of his best bottles for an exhibit at the 20th Annual National Antique Show now in progress at New York's Madison Square Garden.

A few are of 18th Century vintage. Most are the 19th Century variety. All are more valuable than they were when Dr. Freeman, of Watkins Glen, N.Y., acquired them.

"That's the thing about antiques," he said. "Eventually somebody wants something you've got and will pay you more than you paid for it."

Dr. Freeman, 50, earned his Ph.D. when he was 22. Now retired to bottle collecting, he has held many academic honors, including Rockefeller and Carnegie foundation grants, and a Sage Research Council fellowship at Yale's Institute of Human Relations.

His published researches number over 100 and he is an authority on muscular tension in mental efficiency.

Books to his credit include "The Energetics of Human Behavior," "Physiological Psychology," and, his latest, "Grand Old American Bottles."

Dr. Freeman also collects old drugstores, places that have been boarded up for decades, left intact when the owners died.

One, of 1890 vintage, has been reconstructed at the antique show.

"The bottles in these stores are interesting," he said. "But of even greater concern to the curiosity seeker are some of the health education materials found piled in the basements."

An 1890 "Guide to Health," for example, was "circulated for the benefit of suffering humanity."

It was provided by the makers of Swamp-Root, a remedy billed as "the wonderful specific for rheumatism, gravel, diabetes, bright's disease, catarrh of the bladder and all urinary difficulties."

It came complete with sheet music, song and chorus of "Musical Medicus." Some of the lyrics:

"The world is full of senseless songs of love, and war, and fiction, which bring forth naught, as you well know, but score and malediction.

"But I am now about to sing of a physician's glory, how he has won his well-earned fame, I'll tell you in my story . . ."

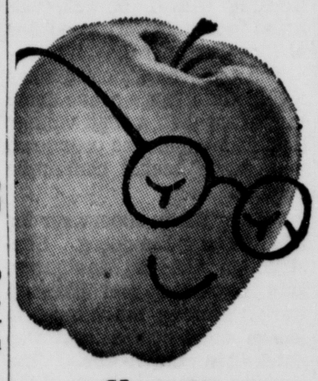

Then comes the chorus, march tempo. In the chorus the praises sung concern the glories of Swamp-Root and the doctor who brewed it.

A "health education" magazine of 1905 was published by the makers of a remedy called "Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

An article on the ills of women asked: "Are you weary and run down? Are you sick and depressed? Is your blood thin and poor?"

And then it goes on to tell how Duffy's remedy helps to invigorate — especially if you're "not always sick, but just tired, tired, tired."

Worst Fire Ever Hits McCook

Damage May Top $250,000 For Four Business Places

McCook (AP)—Flames raged through four downtown businesses early Thursday in what was described as the worst fire in McCook's history.

Damage was expected to exceed a quarter of a million dollars.

Firemen said the blaze broke out shortly before midnight in the basement of the Economy Shoe Store. The store and the adjoining offices of the Kansas-Nebraska Gas Co. were destroyed before the fire spread into the A and M Drugs and Sailors Furniture Store.

The fire was halted by a firewall between the furniture store and McCook Building and Loan.

The four businesses burned were in a brick, two story building on Norris Avenue. They shared a common attic.

Two Injured

Fire Chief Fred Walker was hospitalized after being hit by a stream of water from a fire hose. He apparently was not seriously hurt.

Another fire fighter, Dale Bridgmon, was hospitalized for smoke inhalation, then released.

Tom Murphy and Floyd Schnegelberger, who lived in an apartment above the shoe store, escaped unharmed.

Traffic on B Street, which carries the traffic of U.S. Highways 6, 34 and 83, was rerouted for fear vibration would cause remaining walls to collapse.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Damage estimates were incomplete but Cudge Sailors, the furniture store operator, said damage to his building and stock probably would be about $70,000.

SMASHED AUTO 'SANDWICH'

Verna I. Beason, 43, of 941 F (pictured in car), escaped injury Thursday afternoon when her auto was sandwiched between two others, but her car was heavily damaged. The accident in the 300 block of South 11th occurred when Peter Koch, 75, of 2530 So. 13th, lost consciousness while backing from a parking space. Koch's car travelled nearly half a block, hit the Beason auto and pushed it 15 feet into a parked vehicle, police Lt. R. J. McMeen said. Koch was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital. He did not appear to have suffered accident injuries. (Star Staff Photo)

Bail Leaving U. Of Omaha In Fall Of '65

Omaha (AP)— Dr. Milo Bail resigned Thursday as president of the University of Omaha effective Sept. 1, 1965.

He is 65, the normal retirement age at the university and had been rehired on an annual basis for another year.

Dr. Bail

Dr. Bail, who came to the university as president in July 1, 1948, did not spell out that age was his reason for resigning but commented he was sorry he didn't have 10 more years to give to the job.

The resignation came in a letter to the president of the board of regents, Varro Rhodes. Rhodes named two committees, one of board members and the other of faculty, to seek a successor.

Dr. Bail, a native of Missouri, came to Omaha from Butler University in Indiana. He was a graduate of Missouri Valley College in Marshall, Mo., and won master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Iowa.

Dr. Bail succeeded Dr. Rowland Haines and was president through most of the recent building program at the university.

Dr. Bail is president of the Association of Urban Universities.

Fire Rages In Omaha Hotel

Omaha (AP)—A roaring fire raced through the third floor of the New Arcade Hotel at 13th and Douglas Streets in downtown Omaha Thursday night, but there was only one reported injury.

Chief Fire Investigator Dan Mulcahey said the building had no registered tenants, but one was taken from the scene in a fire department rescue unit and firemen searched the building for a second person.

Firemen said the injured man said he had been visiting another man in the hotel and jumped from the second floor of the building.

An older annex to the building was damaged by a wall collapse several months ago.

Man Charged In Beating, Slaying Of Blonde Coed

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—John Randolph Clarke, 39, an unemployed safety engineer, Thursday was charged with murder in the brutal beating and slaying of 18-year-old blonde University of Tennessee freshman Paula Herring.

Clarke, a prime suspect in the case, was questioned for 10 hours earlier this week then released. He is under guard at a local hospital where he was admitted Thursday for "blackout" attacks.

Public feeling in the case has been running high. The attack on the pretty blonde coed occurred in a suburban development of new homes where at least one rape, several attempted assaults and numerous prowler reports have been made to police in the past several months.

Two Jet Fighters Collide In Flight

Roswell, N. M. (UPI)—Two F'84 jet fighters collided Thursday night during a training flight and crashed into the lonely, barren countryside 17 miles southwest of here.

One pilot was killed, civilian authorities said. The other was taken to a military hospital.

The planes, from the 366th Tactical Fighter Wing at Holloman AFB, carried no military armament. They were on an aerial refueling mission.

Stockmen Ask Reduction In Meat Imports

Scottsbluff (AP)—An estimated 1,000 ranchers and feeders from western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming called for a reduction in meat imports to the level that existed prior to Jan. 1, 1962.

The stockmen also asked that import duties on meat be returned to six cents per pound, instead of the present three cents.

The meeting here attracted stockmen from Scotts Bluff, Morrill, Box Butte and Sioux Counties in Nebraska. The moderator of the meeting was H. L. Bert, chairman of the Scotts Bluff County National Farmers Organization.

Those attending turned down a resolution previously approved at meetings at Alliance and Lyman calling for Senate filibusters if necessary, to correct the beef import situation. The alternate resolution, which was unanimously approved, was offered by Scottsbluff feeder Harry Weber.

The stockmen also charged commercial feedlots were unfair competition for small feeders. Scotts Bluff County feeder Ben Wilson suggested during the discussion that the state right-to-work laws should be rescinded to force commercial feeders to pay union wages.

The group protested recent State Department negotiations with New Zealand and Australia on beef imports. They said the agreements did not sufficiently limit imports from those two nations.

Denney Expected To Resign GOP Chairmanship

By the Associated Press

Republican friends of Robert Denney predicted Thursday that a promised statement from the Fairbury man Sunday will announce his resignation as state GOP chairman.

Denney said Thursday he will disclose Sunday whether he will quit the job he has held for 2½ years. He has said recently that this is long enough for one man to hold the post.

Party officials said Denney wants to devote more time to his law practice. There was speculation that if he quits it will be effective April 4 when the Republicans hold their Founders Day meeting in Omaha. It would be up to the State Central Committee to select a interim chairman to serve until the June 1 state convention. This is when Denney's term ends.

There also was speculation that Walter C. Witthoff of Fremont might seek the office. He resigned Wednesday from the Nebraska Power Review Board. Denney defeated Witthoff for the chairmanship in 1961 when the Central Committee filled the post after it was vacated by Charles Thone.

FDA To Propose Sweeping Change In Drug Regulations

Washington (AP)— The Food and Drug Administration will publish Friday proposed regulations to require drug manufacturers to file reports showing efficacy as well as safety of practically every drug and antibiotic for which federal clearance was obtained between 1938 and last June 20.

A spokesman said that this was possibly the most sweeping regulatory proposal ever advanced by the agency. It is intended to implement the Kefauver-Harris Drug Act Amendments of 1962.

Asst. Commissioner Malcolm R. Stephens told a reporter interested parties will be given 30 days afer publication of the proposal in the Federal Register Friday within which to comment.

Required

Then, upon publication of regulations in final form, drug manufacturers would be required:

1. To file within 30 days reports on whether drugs or antibiotics for which clearance was obtained between 1938 and last June 20 under prior laws are still on the market.

2. To file within the ensuing 60 days reports on the efficacy, safety and side effects of the drugs or antibiotics, such as have been required since last June 20 with regard to all new drugs and antibiotics offered for clearance.

The 1962 drug amendments require that manufacturers show efficacy as well as safety of drugs. The 1962 amendments allowed two years for proof of efficacy of drugs already on the market, with Oct. 10, 1964, to be the deadline.

It was explained that it is hoped that final regulations may be issued prior to the Oct. 10 deadline so there will be no delay in full implementation of the requirement.

It was estimated that there might be as many as 5,000 to 6,000 drugs and antibiotics involved, though it was possible many of these no longer are on the market.

Beneficial

Stephens said a beneficial effect of the new proposal would be the requirement for reporting not only on efficacy but on side effects. saying several recent episodes in which manufacturers did not report promptly cases of injury to patients could possibly have been avoided if such reporting had been required.

Under the proposal and the law, a manufacturer would be required to report adverse side effects immediately upon learning of them and also to report on efficacy at least once a year.

The proposal also would require that holders of new drug applications inform FDA as to whether current labeling and promotion material conform to the original claims and evidences of safety filed with the new drug application.

Kick-The-Cigarette-Habit Program Slated Next Week

The Five-Day Plan To Stop Smoking, a program to help people stop smoking, will be held at the Nebraska Center Sunday, through Thursday.

Dr. Alfred O. Mazat, M.D., staff member of the Porter Sanitarium and Hospital, Denver, Colo., will present the physiological aspects of breaking the smoking habit.

E. J. Folkenberg, co-originator of the five-day plan, will present the psychological aspects.

There is no charge for the course.

Summary of Conditions

A warm front moved through the Omaha area about mid-afternoon Thursday and is now aligned from northwestern Wisconsin through eastern Iowa, down into central Missouri and continuing eastward. A weak cold front extends from the James Bay area down to northwestern Wisconsin and then through Minnesota to south of Fargo, N.D., and into the southwest corner of Manitoba and northwestward. The cold front is not expected to spread into Nebraska, but may affect northeastern Iowa. This warm occlusion set off some lines of snow showers in central and eastern Nebraska and moved southeastward with the upper air flow. The main feature is a large Great Basin high pressure area centered in the southeastern Idaho-northern Utah area and spread over most of the Rockies and gradually working into the plains. By Friday night it should spread into Texas and the western part of the Gulf of Mexico and should keep moisture out of the Nebraska-Iowa area.

Mostly fair skies should be the rule in Nebraska and western Iowa Friday or at most partly cloudy skies at times. Temperatures will be some warmer in central Nebraska Friday as a result of less cloudiness than Thursday.

Togetherness Can Pay Off

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Were it not for its tendency toward community living, the human race would be a sorry lot of individuals. This is one characteristic of man that is universal and distinguishes him from many other forms of life. Even the communists have not disagreed with the West on this point and, in fact, have even carried it much further than has Western civilization.

Without living in close harmony and relationship with others, there would be no social, political or economic order to the world. Undoubtedly, we would still be living a kind of cave-man existence if it were not for our ability to band together with others like ourselves for the mutual benefit of all concerned. This is what our forefathers did when they founded this nation, what the pioneers did when they settled in Nebraska and what a past generation did when it laid out and began to live in Lincoln. It can hardly be denied that this pooling of individual abilities and resources has been a productive adventure.

Cooperative Need

When the Reds examined this characteristic of humanity, they concluded that if a little bit of something was good, then a lot of it would be perfect. Thus, they so collectivized man in his way of living that they just about destroyed his individuality. They dulled man's motivation and soon had his initiative and ingenuity on the wane.

The Russian communists eventually discovered that too much collectivism is a bad thing, not the perfection they had thought it would be. They have since relented some in the totality of their absolute socialism, even though they still view this as their ultimate objective. Their view now is that the perfect state of collectivism must be approached more slowly, so that the people can sort of get accustomed to it.

There are those in this country today who maintain that every move toward collective action is a move toward communism, but they are sadly mistaken. If this were the case, we would have been communistic from the day the Pilgrims landed on the shores of this continent and the only question left now would be the degree of our communism. Thus, it is not communistic to speak of cooperative efforts between governments and among peoples to secure a better way of life. It is not communistic to band together in an effort to improve economic opportunity and realize savings through efficiency of operation. The key consideration is the freedom of people and the accountability of their government.

Many of the old lines of government have become dim in this country through a period of changing times and conditions. Townships are hardly heard of any more except in the legal description of land, and counties are found to mean much less than they once did. The most important center of government today is local government and it has become very closely related to state government. The latter, in turn, has become very closely related to the federal government. This, however, is not necessarily the sign of any decaying social order or great political innovation.

What we are experiencing are natural evolutionary changes calculated to better equip society to meet the demands of growing responsibility and enlightenment. As a nation we have grown in numbers which has required us to provide additional opportunities. Our standard of living has constantly improved, giving us always new problems to solve.

As municipalities have grown, they have found problems that did not exist 20 years ago as well as opportunities of which no one had dreamed. This continues to happen and to spark such things as cooperative efforts on a regional basis. A number of regions of Nebraska have given study of late to the prospect of closer ties with one another.

They are exploring such things as joint public facilities and planning in an effort to realize an economy that could react to the greater benefit of all concerned. Most recent is the discussion between officials of cities from Omaha to Nebraska City, including Lincoln, Waverly, Bennington, Ashland and Millard. It is becoming apparent that there is a relationship between these areas today that did not exist a decade or two ago. Because of the growth in population of the area, the tremendous improvement in transportation and communication and other social and economic changes, there is a substantial community of interest among the people of this region.

New Feeling Of Unity

If they can do collectively things that would be impossible for them to do alone, there is no reason for them to hesitate in proceeding. And it stands to reason that in working with and for each other, they will achieve a great deal more than they would if working only for themselves alone.

BIBLE WORDS THAT GUIDE ME

In the world you have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world.
John 16:33 Revised Standard Version

By REV. GERALD KENNEDY
Bishop, The Los Angeles Area, The Methodist Church

These gallant words spoken by One who is facing death are to me one of the high points of the Bible. They are both a promise and a spur, and I have found them the words I needed to hear in many a difficult situation.

Jesus is saying to us that we live in the world and that we are not to expect any escape from it. There is nothing here of acting as if the world did not exist. We are in the world and we are going to have trouble. Unlike so many other leaders, Jesus never promised His disciples an easy time or a comfortable living. He puts it very bluntly and simply states that trouble is a part of the experience of men who live in this world and follow him.

But He bids His followers to be of good cheer. We may try to get through the difficulties of our lives by drinking alcohol. Or we may form mutual admiration societies and tell ourselves how good we are. We think we can pretend and by the sheer power of our wishing make our life easier. But Jesus gives us some good cheer which the world can neither give nor understand. I have seen it shining in the faces of Christians behind the Iron Curtain as they listened to the Scriptures read and sang a hymn. It has been apparent through the centuries and has manifested itself in a kind of absurd joy in the midst of suffering and difficulty. I have found it in the lives of the quiet saints who carry their heavy burdens with grace and who face their sorrows with dignity and assurance. One of His greatest gifts is good cheer in the midst of tribulation.

Rev. Gerald Kennedy

And all of this is possible because we know that He has overcome the world. He has changed civilizations and He has performed miracles in human life. It comes to us at last that God will have the final word and that He will make the final decision. So these words have been like a trumpet of hope to me through the years and I could never describe adequately how often they have kept me on my feet.

Bishop Gerald Kennedy is one of the great Christian leaders of mid-twentieth century America and one of the ablest, most forthright and challenging spokesmen of American Protestantism. That he should command such a position is due, in large measure, to a rare combination of talents as preacher, administrator and writer.

The imprint of his leadership already has been left in unmistakable ways upon his chief concern, overseeing the Southern California-Arizona Methodist Conference and Hawaii Mission, with their 450 churches, 230,000 members and nearly 800 ministers.

Many have paid tribute to Bishop Kennedy. One weekly news magazine listed him among ten of the greatest American preachers. And "Pulpit Digest" said, "knowing him is the best medicine for any pessimism about where the Church is headed."

But the one tribute that stands out, was from a longtime friend and colleague. When Bishop Kennedy took office as president of the Methodist Council of Bishops, Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam said of him: "He is the most gifted churchman I know in speech, writing and reading. He is vital, alive to everything that is alive. But he cannot tolerate the obvious. His judgment will not allow his love to keep him from doing his duty. He has great intelligence. In his preaching, he takes off from the place where I thought he would conclude. This man is different. He makes religion real."

Diplomats Caught In Dope Traffic

WASHINGTON — The sensational arrests of two ambassadors, one in 1960, the other last week, may lead to still bigger catches. For they aren't the only foreign ambassadors who have been using their diplomatic immunity to smuggle dope into this country.

Narcotics agents are hot on the trail of other diplomats, high in the chanceries of friendly governments, who have formed a fantasic allegiance with the underworld. Lured by the rustle of greenbacks, they have been delivering dope from France's notorious Corsican gang to America's infamous Mafia.

First to be nabbed was Guatemala's ambassador to Belgium, Mauricio Rosal, who was caught in 1960 with $20,000,000 worth of heroin in his luggage. His apprehension led, after a three-year vigil, to the arrest last weekend of Mexico's ambassador to Bolivia, Salvador Pardo-Bolland.

Narcotics agents trailed Pardo-Bolland to New York City directly from his rendezvous with the racketeers in southern France. During the tryst, he posed as Suarez de Mendoza, using a phony passport he had issued to himself.

He resumed his diplomatic identity for the flight to New York, but he loaded his luggage with liquor instead of heroin. Agents believe the liquor was a decoy to throw them off the trial of the heroin which had been slipped to a former Uruguayan diplomat named Juan Aritzi.

☆ ☆ ☆

Aritizi checked his luggage, containing $13,500,000 worth of heroin, in an airport locker. Agents trailing him reported that for three successive days he made regular visits to a cathedral to light candles.

This gave the Canadian mounted police time to open his luggage and substitute flour for the heroin, except for a few ounces that were left in his suitcases as evidence.

Upon word from Pardo-Bolland, Aritizi caught a train for New York City. He was met at Pennyslvania station by the same Negro porter who had carried Pardo-Bolland's bags at the Kennedy airport.

Meanwhile, the Mexican ambassador has received a cable explaining that his underworld contact in New York City, Ren Bruchon, was using the name John Francis LaRoux.

Once the cast of characters was complete, the agents quietly and efficiently rounded them up. Only the Corsican ringleaders escaped the net in France. One of them, Gilbert Coscia, is reported to be in Switzerland. He was the one who supplied the heroin to both ambassadors, Rosal in 1960 and Pardo-Bolland in 1964.

On Timing

Lincoln, Neb.

I noticed the cartoon of the longshoremen. These men are undoubtedly answering in their hearts a cry which would have been voiced by the American people a little while ago. Why let anyone have anything that belongs to you if he is still trying to destroy you? That is the question which the unions are still trying to answer.

Without having all the answers, I should like to suggest that a matter of timing is important.

The Canadian Pacific Railroad may be the longest railroad on our continent. James Hill who served on the board of directors might have been surprised at the idea of selling wheat to Russia. He wanted to sell wood to China. Yet today it would require a freight train one-fourth as long as the Canadian Pacific Railroad to carry the wheat which Canada recently sold to Russia. But anyone who wants to sell China anything should first find out which China.

Timing is not all-important. There are some deathless values. Yet even these come to greater life almost every spring to remind us that we should try again to get along in a crowded world.

Please think back to the time when peonies and rhubarb were one and the same plant. The earliest of all those many relatives to show their faces in the spring still carries an old rhubarb name, "Officianalis Rhubra." The earliest peony! It was probably originated by some Caucasian along the Rha—excuse me, the Volga River.

It is another year, another spring. Before we all let loose the power to blow everything apart, perhaps there is a new way, a new time to try again to get along.

We may be wrong. But this spring when you see a lovely "Festiva Maxima" big enough to fill the bowl of your hat, please remember that the Greeks had a word for the predecessors of that flower and from it we got our word, "barbarous." And some youngster who reads this line may still find time to write the book that is still waiting to be written about the industry of rhubarb on the Rha.

Then And Now

Ansley, Neb.

I well remember the good old-fashioned hat pins. Sometimes they had glass heads, either black or white. They had almost gone out of fashion before I was a young lady, but the history of the hat pin as a young lady's defense weapon was by that time established. Also in that category was the "spike heel."

When I was a girl, there was no legal liquor sold. If a girl danced with a young man who had gotten a drink somewhere, she was looked down on. Rolled-down hose were an eye-raiser in those days, too.

The old-fashioned tin curlers made nice pompadours. The old marcel and curling irons were heated over a kerosene lamp or oil stove burner. They made the hair quite curly. Sometimes a hunk of hair disappeared "right now" when the iron was too hot. A small pan of water, an old toothbrush and a bar of soap made very classy spit curls on the forehead and around the ears.

Our hats had a very special slant over our heads then, tilted "just so."

The "five-foot-two's" of that day are dieting now, or should be. How those "great big beautiful dolls" do change! Today they are just "big."

Meat Prices

Lincoln, Neb.

It has been of great interest to me during the past weeks to read the discussion regarding the importation of foreign meat, especially from New Zealand and Australia. In view of the fact that I was born in New Zealand and lived in both countries prior to coming to the U.S.A., maybe I view this situation a little differently.

To date everything I have read seems to be the fact that we are buying some beef from these countries, but it would be of great interest to the public to let them know the amount of goods we export to these countries. For instance, New Zealand has no gas, so all is imported and in the past a great deal of this was from America. I am sure we must still export cars and all kinds of electrical appliances, including refrigerators, to mention just a few. These countries get their main wealth from the export of butter, meat, hides, cheese, dried milk and wool, as neither is a large manufacturing country.

During World War II, New Zealand raised almost enough food to feed the forces in the Pacific. Another thing we should bear in mind is that these countries do not come hat in hand for foreign aid, but are a sturdy people who like to be independent. We have other countries in SEATO but should real trouble come in the Pacific or Asia, how many could we depend upon besides New Zealand and Australia?

The more I think on this matter, it seems that the root of the trouble is with the middle man. The plight of the farmer I can appreciate and sympathize with, but when a housewife goes to the store, how many can affort to pay over $1 a pound for steak? During the past few years, the cost of food generally has risen, not by a penny per item but often by a nickel at a time. Throughout the country, there are many families who cannot afford to eat enough meat, so if prices were cheaper, then more would be consumed.

EX-KIWI

We Belong In It

The Senate has passed and the House is about to take up a significant measure providing for much greater emphasis on water research and the training of hydroscientists.

It would provide grants and matching funds for water research centers in land grant colleges and universities, such as the University of Nebraska. The legislation is modeled after the agricultural research and experiment station program which has operated with notable success for upward of 70 years.

Giving major recognition to the national problem of water illustrates how important that subject has become in view of this nation's growing demand for it in the face of usual supply. The measure anticipates progress in more efficient use and re-use of existing supplies together with new methods of conservation and distribution.

It is still difficult for many to grasp the growing concern for something that has always been considered abundant and it still seems a remote problem to eastern Nebraska which receives more than two and a half feet of rainfall a year and is blessed with an unusual supply of ground water. Nebraska is still prodigally wasteful of its water. But it should not be indifferent to this pending legislation, nor if it passes, to early planning for the establishment of research facilities here.

The states where basic abundance exists will take on greater economic importance as the nation grows and the economy expands. Forehanded development and defense of the abundance is presently the best possible insurance of future prosperity and general security. We should be in on the ground floor.

Power Board Record Good

One of the best records in state government has been written by the fledgling State Power Review Board headed by Clair Callan of Odell. Within recent days, the board has made two substantial contributions to the cause of peace in the field of public power in Nebraska.

The board settled first the dispute over rates that had developed between Consumers Public Power District and the Nebraska Public Power System. Basically, the board recommended the current rate structure be maintained at this time and differences be ironed out between Consumers and NPPS at the next contract renewal time.

Now, the board has approved construction by Consumers of additional generation capacity at its Hallam plant. This may not sound as though it is any monumental achievement but it was the work of the board which led to circumstances facilitating the generation decision.

It was the board that was finally able to determine that additional generation would not jeopardize the state's application for additional power from Bureau of Reclamation projects on the Missouri River. This bureau assurance removed objection from other power interests in Nebraska to the Consumers generation proposal.

The board, it should be remembered, is only advisory and none of the power agencies is obligated to follow its advice. But the board has done a diligent and impartial job of arbitration that should prove to be effective. There can be no doubt that the board has served well the purpose of its creation and it is hoped it continues to be a stabilizing influence upon public power in Nebraska.

Can't Have It Both Ways

Senator Barry Goldwater recently asserted that the Tennessee Valley Authority ought to be sold to private investors, which is to say, the government has no business in such an undertaking, even though in this instance it has been unusually successful.

The senator is evidently a man who does not let his right hand know what his left doeth. While he attacks the TVA in principle he is sponsoring a somewhat similar, but more expensive, plan called the Central Arizona Project.

This is a program which would call for a federal outlay of more than one billion dollars to construct a 673 feet high Bridge Canyon Dam to provide both electric power and water for the irrigation of arid stretches of Arizona. The project does not include navigation, flood control or any direct revenue to the federal or state governments in taxes or tax substitutes, and would consume a healthy percentage of its electric power to pump its water to the thirsty land. Yet it would demand public funds on a 50-year repayment basis as does the TVA and pegs the interest rate at 3 per cent. Last year TVA paid interest at the rate of 3.285 per cent. The initial cost of over a billion compares with an investment of $400 million that went into TVA its first 12 years.

The CAP proposal is not a bad one. It would be a blessing to Arizona and a substantial contributor to economic progress. Nebraska congressmen and senators, as well as those of other states, could be justified in helping Sen. Goldwater realize his dream. But since it is more expensive and not quite as beneficial as TVA we might ask Sen. Goldwater why he does not take his program to private interests and thereby refrain from compounding the evil he sees in public investment in TVA-like programs. Or does he feel that TVA is wrong because it is the wrong part of the country?

We hope he loses his case against TVA and wins it in Arizona.

Humphrey Pilot Of Civil Rights

WASHINGTON — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the Minnesota liberal, wants to run for vice president with President Johnson. What happens in the Senate fight on civil rights will profoundly, perhaps decisively, affect his hopes.

The senator is an outstanding civil rights spokesman. He has eloquence, warmth and the saving grace of humor. He carries that special conviction which comes from believing what he says.

But this spring his task is different. He has taken on the job of parliamentary commander of an effort to enact a complex and far-reaching civil rights measure.

An astute and experienced Southern leadership is against it. A similarly talented Republican leadership will cooperate with the South just enough to make compromise inevitable and then take credit for the final bill.

In the activist presence of Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia and the watchful presence of Republican leader Everett Dirksen, what will be required of Humphrey will be patience, precision and perseverance.

☆ ☆ ☆

Russell and Dirksen are Senate men to the bone, and their social skill is parliamentary. Humphrey is no slouch in debate, and he can be a formidable opponent. But his interests are varied and widespread. Next to the President he is probably more in demand among Democrats as a speaker than any public figure. He is intensely concerned about foreign affairs and loves travel.

What he will be asked to do throughout the lovely spring is to stick to a task which will have exciting and important moments but very many tedious ones. The Southerners will see to that, but theirs is not the whole story.

Any legislation that does so much deserves to get and will get detailed consideration. There is the more pressure for it because the Senate Judiciary Committee is being bypassed lest it inflict endless hearings and possibly sudden death on the issue. Nor will Republicans be in any hurry to cut short public advertisement of the Democratic split on civil rights.

☆ ☆ ☆

President Johnson will, of course, get major credit in urban areas if a strong and inclusive civil rights bill is enacted. But the day-by-day battle will be in Humphrey's hands, and much press attention will be given to how well or ill he does with it. The President also has the option of blaming others if the course of events does not please him.

With long congressional experience behind him, he can be expected to make judgments more apt to be severe than charitable on how his civil rights interests are being handled. After all, he is understandably nervous about it.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy is almost certainly Humphrey's most formidable rival for the vice-presidential nomination with Johnson as far as party professionals outside the South are concerned. The attorney general's advantage is that he can push civil rights without being responsible for whether a bill is enacted.

Guard Unit Will Become Mechanized

The 67th Infantry Brigade of the Nebraska Army National Guard will become mechanized as of March 1, Maj. Gen. Lyle A. Welch, Nebraska adjutant general, reported Thursday.

He described the step as a continuation of the reorganization of last April 1 and said Gov. Frank Morrison had approved the change as one providing the type organization most suitable for performing both state and federal missions.

The 67th Infantry Brigade with headquarters in Lincoln has an authorized strength of 2,537 enlisted men, 232 officers and 21 warrant officers.

Mechanization of the brigade does not affect other organizations and units of the Nebraska Army National Guard, Gen. Welch said.

Mechanization of the brigade will add new items of equipment such as tanks and armored personnel carriers to the current inventory of equipment. These items plus others make the brigade 100% mobile.

The new items of equipment are not immediately available but means for requisitioning, receipt and accountability is provided. New electronic equipment to enhance the communications capability of the guard units also will be provided.

Cash Lacking To Cool Entire Capitol, But Job To Proceed

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Capitol Building Commission Thursday authorized State Engineer John Hossack to negotiate a contract with the low bidder for air conditioning the State Capitol to get as much as possible with available funds—which are about $350,000 short of the amount needed to cool the entire building.

Natkin & Co. of Lincoln submitted the low bid of $1,149,859 — approximately $116,000 lower than the next lowest bid. A total of seven bids were submitted for installing the actual system within the Capitol.

Hossack noted that the Legislature appropriated what the commission had requested to enable completion of the air conditioning, but the request was based on early engineering estimates which were too low.

In addition to the air conditioning installation itself, two other contracts are associated with the project: the state and University of Nebraska will share the cost of chillers to be constructed on the NU campus to provide cooled water for both facilities (about $200,000 cost to the state), and the other is for the pipeline to carry the water to the Capitol (about $300,000).

Hossack said the low bidder had estimated he could do the job for about $843,000 if several sections of the building were deferred for the present. It was indicated these sections would include the tower, East Senate Chamber and Lounge, the Law Library, Supreme Court Chamber, and the first and second floors of the northeast quadrant.

Two Budget Committee members, Sens. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman, and George Gerdes of Alliance, were asked to sit in on the commission meeting to hear the problem.

Poles Go To Visit

Warsaw (AP) — A Polish parliamentary delegation will vis it Indonesia early in March the press agency PAP reports.

'Foundations Not Listing Intangible Holdings'—Terry

State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff says he has learned that in neither Douglas nor Lancaster Counties are tax-exempt foundations informing county assessors of their intangible property holdings.

Carpenter said this was determined in unannounced visits to county assessor offices in Omaha and Lincoln.

Carpenter has asked the State Department of Justice for an opinion on whether intangibles held by charitable, educational or religious foundations are subject to taxation.

The senator maintained that assessors are compelled by law to get data on foundation intangibles, regardless of their tax status.

SEN. FORRESTER WITHDRAWS

State Sen. M. M. Forrester of Anselmo Thursday withdrew as a candidate for relection to the Legislature from the new 40th district.

Forrester, the oldest senator at 81, wrote Secretary of State Frank Marsh asking that his name be taken off the primary ballot.

His withdrawal will not be official, however, until he fills out an affadavit of his intention not to be a candidate.

The other two candidates from that district are former State Sen. Dwain Williams of Broken Bow and Robert J. McPherrin of Stapleton.

Roland Leudtke of Lincoln, an attorney who recently resigned as Lancaster County Republican Party chairman, filed as a candidate for the Legislature from the new 28th district. He had resigned the party post to make the nonpartisan legislative race.

Sen. Kenneth L. Bowen of Red Cloud also completed his filing for a fourth term from the new 37th district.

Herb Nore of Genoa, a farmer, stockman and businessman, filed as a candidate for the Legislature from the 22nd district.

Nore, 52, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Morrison Calls For Understanding

Jefferson City, Mo. (AP)—Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska called Thursday for "a common ground of reverence and understanding for mankind" to meet the problems of a world ravaged by hate and misunderstanding.

"We should take the faith of Jesus out of the ivory tower," he said, "and put it side by side with us as we address ourselves to the problems of the world."

Morrison was the guest of Gov. John M. Dalton and the main speaker at the govenor's fourth annual prayer breakfast, one of a series being held around the country by the International Christian Leadership Group.

It was attended by 420 early rising state officials and citizens.

In a television show Wednesday night the two governors complained the Midwest is not getting its fair share of research grants.

Senators Hear Of Efforts To Control Spray Dangers

The Legislative Council water control study committee concluded its hearings Thursday afternoon with testimony on what the chemical industry is doing to control the possible harmful effects of insecticides and pesticides on fish and wildlife.

Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance, chairman, said his committee would meet next month to formulate its recommendations to the 1965 Legislature.

Gerdes said, "It looks like everyone is working toward resolving the problem" of controlling poisonous crop sprays.

Dr. Wendell R. Mullison, a research and development official of the Dow Chemical Co. from Midland, Mich., testified the industry is aware such chemicals are dangerous when used improperly. But, he said, "if used properly and according to our best knowledge and methods they do not constitute a hazard."

He said the industry is trying to develop crop sprays which are effective but not toxic.

Aware of Effects

He said that while the industry is aware of the possible harmful effects of such chemicals to fish and wildlife "we try to use things that do not constitute a significant hazard."

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen earlier said he is concerned about the use of such chemicals. He said they have in many instances been fatal to fish and wildlife when they found their way into Nebraska streams. Steen said many of these chemicals have a cumulative effect which while not fatal can adversely affect future generations of the same specie.

Two entomologists, Robert Roselle of the University of Nebraska, and Cliff Wallstrom of the State Department of Agriculture, stated they generally believe there is no serious problem associated with the use of pesticides and insecticides as long as they are used properly.

Roselle noted that insect control is essential to the agricultural economy of the state and the world, thus making use of insecticides and pesticides a matter of necessity.

The committee was also told by a State Health Department official that secondary treatment is needed to free Nebraska streams from detergent foam.

'Not Major Pollutant'

T. A. Filipi, director of the division of environmental health, said however that foam is not a major pollutant.

"If we are to have our waters free from foam we will need an intense campaign for construction of secondary treatment," Filipi said. He explained this would entail a secondary unit at existing facilities.

Filipi said a few communities such as Grand Island, Seward and Beatrice now remove foam through secondary treatment, but the majority do not.

Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission, said the state is participating in federal basin studies because of need and desire.

He also asked that the annual legislative appropriation for planning be increased from $100,000 to $130,000.

He said this would enable the commission to organize a fourth field survey team and hire the personnel to assimilate the information gathered.

FUELS TAX TAKE INCREASES

Nebraska's gasoline, special fuel and interstate motor carrier fuel taxes increased more than half a million dollars this month, State Agriculture Director Pearle Finigan reported Thursday.

The total tax collection for February was $3,837,219, compared to $3,329,479 in January.

Agricultural tax administrator Richard Shugrue credited the increase "largely to the new interstate motor fuels system by which truckers can purchase fuel in Nebraska and get a tax credit for that portion of the fuel not used in the state."

Shugrue said, "Before the Interstate system went into effect, truckers were routing some vehicles around Nebraska. Now they enter the state, purchase the fuel they need, report at the end of the month and pay their tax on the basis of the fuel consumed in Nebraska."

U.S. Judge Bawls Out Three Hoffa Attorneys

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP) — His brown eyes flashing anger, U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson sharply rebuked three defense lawyers who accused him Thursday of siding against them at James Hoffa's jury-tampering trial.

It was the first time since the trial began Jan. 20 that Wilson displayed his temper during repeated exchanges with defense attorneys.

The latest exchange interrupted the government's rebuttal testimony, completed in mid-afternoon. The case is expected to reach the jury early next week—the seventh week of the trial.

Jury In On Start

The jury, trying Hoffa and five others on charges of trying to bribe the Nashville jury which heard the Teamsters president's 1962 conspiracy trial, was present for the start of the fireworks. Like most of the other exchanges, this one involved Edward Grady Partin, a Baton Rouge, La., Teamsters official who testified against Hoffa.

Harry Berke, Hoffa's Chattanooga lawyer, was cross-examining Victor Bussie, a Baton Rouge AFL-CIO official called to counteract defense attacks on Partin's character. Bussie was one of three government rebuttal witnesses who termed Partin's reputation good.

When Berke asked if he was "aware that Partin was under investigation for smuggling arms to Cuba," Judge Wilson glared. He had warned the defense on several previous occasions to avoid the question as improper.

Shakes Finger

Jerking off his dark-rimmed glasses, he learned far forward and, shaking a finger at Berke, snapped: "Mr. Berke, there is no basis in the record for that. You, have wilfully disregarded the court's instructions. When I give counsel instructions, I expect them to be obeyed."

The judge told the jury to disregard the remark. After a recess, with the jury absent, Berke asked an apology from the court on grounds he was "unfairly chastized . . . in the presence of the jury."

New York lawyer Jacques Schiffer accused the judge of aiding the prosecution by indicating "time and time again to the jury that the defense counsel are charlatans, that we're tricksters, that we're trying to fool the jury." And Harvey Silets, a Chicago defense lawyer, declared the judge displayed "bias and prejudice against the defense."

Bristles In Reply

Bristling, the judge replied, "This court has absolutely no bias and prejudice against any of the defendants. The attorneys have made it difficult for the court throughout the trial. I hope that counsel will learn the court means exactly what it says."

The government's rebuttal witnesses were presented to try to refute defense testimony which painted Partin as "a professional liar," a woman chaser and a dope addict.

Meanwhile, Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, read into the congressional record a letter from Teamster headquarters in Washington seeking a Senate inquiry into alleged "Gestapo tactics" employed by the government at the trial. He asked Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, to take "such action as may be deemed appropriate."

Adm. Sharp To Be Yank Pacific Boss

Washington (AP)—Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp, chief of the U.S. fleet in the Pacific and a specialist in strategic planning, apparently will be moved up to over-all command of the Pacific-Far East area.

Reports Thursday said Sharp has been picked as successor to Adm. Harry D. Felt, who has headed the unified military command in the Pacific for six years, and who reaches the retirement age of 62 this summer.

Sharp, 57-year-old native of Chinook, Mont., became fleet commander in the Pacific only last September. He is a veteran of destroyer and cruiser service in both World War II and Korea.

His latest assignment in the Pentagon was deputy chief of naval operations for plans. This, combined with his extensive experience in the Pacific, apparently contributed to the reasons for selecting him for the over-all command of Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force units in the huge Pacific area. This area includes the war zone of South Viet Nam.

Sharp's associates say he works methodically and deliberately, in crisis or calm, and that "he has no time for people who don't think hard, fast and straight." In appearance, Sharp bears this out, with a close-cropped cut of iron gray hair and a medium-height, sturdy build.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara decided last fall that the unified Pacific command, which since its inception has been held only by Navy officers, would be made available also to the Army and Air Force. But McNamara reportedly decided also that the Navy would continue to retain the post for a term following Felt's retirement.

The reported decision to promote Sharp to the job raised new speculation about other forthcoming changes in the military high command.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is expected to leave that post later this year.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, will complete a one-year extension in that job this summer, with nothing to indicate his reappointment.

New Radio, TV Service Group Picks Wilkerson

George Wilkerson was elected president of the Nebraska Electronics Servicemen's Association, a group launched Wednesday by representatives from 15 local radio and television service shops.

Other officers include Bob Gormley, vice president; Roger Brehm, secretary, and Charles Enyeart, treasurer.

Named to the executive board were John Sperry, Francis Koelzer and Clark Trissell.

PRINCESS ANNE HAS CURFEW

Princess Anne, Md. (AP) — A curfew went into effect Thursday night as white leaders tried to avert another racial demonstration by Negro students.

John Wilson, president of the Student Appeal for Equality (SAFE) at Maryland State College, said earlier Thursday the demonstrators were suspended until Saturday. But late in the day he said they could happen anytime.

Riotous demonstrations Wednesday resulted in the arrest of 27 students and medical treatment of 59 as they clashed with 130 state police who quelled the Negroes with police dogs and fire hoses.

"We got more kids hurt than well," said Wilson. He said the students would be taught passive resistance and how to conduct themselves during demonstrations.

Cafes Discriminate

The town commission adopted a curfew which prohibits persons under 21 from being on the streets between 9:15 p.m. and 6 a.m. Most of the demonstrations for the past week against two restaurants whose owners refuse to serve Negroes have happened during daylight, however.

Maryland State has 527 day students, all but 13 of them Negro. The campus is on the outskirts of Princess Anne, whose population is about 36% Negro.

Princess Anne, settled in 1666 and chartered in 1733, is the seat of Somerset County. Residents are proud of the graceful mansions and stately boxwood gardens.

Won't Negotiate

Alexander Jones, 36-year-old town attorney and white chairman of the Princess Anne Biracial Commission, said he would not negotiate further with the students.

His committee succeeded last June in getting eight of nine restaurants and all churches to say they would be desegregated. One of the restaurants has been sold and the new owner said he did not feel bound by the agreement. The demonstrations have centered around the two restaurants.

ARE LINCOLN TAXPAYERS DOLLARS BEING WISELY SPENT BY THE AIRPORT AUTHORITY FOR FURNISHINGS AT THE NEW AIRPORT?

1. IS THE AIRPORT AUTHORITY EXERCISING THE BEST JUDGMENT FOR THE INTERESTS OF ITS TAXPAYERS WHEN IT AWARDS A FURNISHINGS CONTRACT OF $15,817.65 TO THE HIGH BIDDER RATHER THAN ACCEPTING THE LOW BID?

   THE TAXPAYERS WOULD HAVE SAVED $1419.91 ON THE LOWER BID.

2. WAS THE AIRPORT AUTHORITY CORRECT IN ITS JUDGMENT THAT THE BID SPECIFICATIONS DID NOT DISQUALIFY COMPETITION FOR SUCH FURNISHINGS WHEN—

To Be Spring Bride

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Rosalee Burger of Lincoln, to Al Dean Blome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Blome of Hallam, is being announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burger of DeWitt.

Plans are being made for a late spring wedding.

The bride-to-be is a former coed at Dana College in Blair. Her fiance is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Wins Award

Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold was honored as "the patriotic president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs" by the Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., and was one of five patriotic citizens to receive a National Recognition Award from the foundation recently.

The federation also was honored for its project, "To Strengthen the Arm of Liberty", and presented a George Washington Honor Medal award.

Good Morning

We could make the morning brighter by telling you that Easter is four weeks from Sunday — or that eight weeks from today is May 1— the time of May flowers. We could tell you these things but who needs happier new than the tax cut.

* * *

..There is happy news at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meisinger — Their daughter, Miss Marlene Meisinger, is due to arrive on Sunday for a stay of a few days.

Miss Meisinger, a former Nebraska coed, is a stewardess with Frontier Air Lines and is based in Salt Lake City.

We have news of the Metropolitan Opera Company's recent district auditions which were held recently in Minneapolis, and in which Nebraska audition winners participated.

Nebraska contestants did not fare well in the district competition due, so we were told, to their youth and lack of experience.

For instance, the district winner was Robert Goodlow, a baritone, who is 27 years old. Mr. Goodlow, who now is publications director at Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, is originally from Scarsdale, N.Y. He studied in New York City and has appeared in many musical events there. Mr. Goodlow majored in journalism, and it wasn't until he met the opera coach at Simpson, that he decided to change from journalism to opera.

Iowa contributed two winners to the district auditions — the fourth place winner was Miss Nancy Stokes of Newton, Iowa, a soprano.

Second place winner, LeRoy Lehr, calls Coon Rapids, Minn., home, and the third place winner, John Patton, the only tenor in the winning group, is a resident of Madison, Wis.

Mr. Goodlow will go to New York City to appear with the semi-finalists on March 20. The finalists in the nation-wide auditions will be auditioned on March 22.

In addition to the all-expenses-paid trip to New York, Mr. Goodlow, and all of the district winners throughout the nation, will receive the Weyerhauser award of $300.

No better time than right now to say 'Happy Birthday' to George Holmes who will be celebrating his 21st birthday anniversary — if you just count Leap Years. Mr. Holmes will be a luncheon host on Saturday at Hotel Lincoln.

* * *

Someone sent us a clipping from the San Diego paper which showed a picture of Mrs. Early Duncan, the area chairman for the appearance of the Korean Sahm-Chan-Li dance troupe. The group, composed of more than 20 performers who never have appeared before Korean audiences, was organized by the Asia Society of the Performing Arts in New York City.

For those who were not residents of Lincoln during a good share of World War II — we'll explain that Mrs. Duncan made a host of friends and was exceedingly popular during the period her husband, Gen. Duncan, was in command of the Air Force Base.

Four Faces Wait For Leap Year

Just one birthday each year never seems quite adequate, but four years between cake and candles is a long stretch, so it's no wonder that these three youngsters are counting the minutes until Feb. 29.

Both girls will be three years old, and Lorn will finally celebrate his first birthday, after 48 impatient months.

The unusual clock which holds their attention is an intricately tooled timepiece, which belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnson. It shows not only the day, date, month, hour, minute, second, but also proclaims Feb. 29 every four years.

While enjoying only a fourth of the birthdays usually allotted to people, Kathy and Lorn, as well as anyone else born on Feb. 29, are eligible for membership in an unusual birthday honorary, of which Rhonda is already a member.

Called the Order of 29'ers, World Chapter 1, it was established in 1928 by Kenneth L. Simons, managing editor of the Headlight-Sun Newspapers in Pittsburg, Kan.

According to Mr. Simons, the only prerequisite for joining is to contact him in care of the newspaper.

A scroll is given to members commemorating the day, and is inscribed with a baby in diapers, a large safety pin, and the Latin motto, "Every Four Years." The document is issued only during Leap Year Februaries.

For babies born tomorrow, a gold-tinted scroll will be sent. According to Mr. Simons, he has a complete list of members, who number near 2000.

On Feb. 29, a mystical grand conclave is held—in spirit only, since the honorary is world-wide. Mr. Simons is executive secretary of the Order of 29'ers, which is the only office.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

MEADOW LANE

There seems to be a vast variety of bugs and fevers in several suburban homes this week and we aren't referring to the four-legged types. The younger generation is running the gamut—from colds to flu and the adults have contracted a fever—the traveling variety.

Regardless of the weather there seems to be an urge to head for the open road on the part of many suburban families. And although it seems to be a traumatic experience for the younger members of the family everything turns out for the best.

And we might add that everyone in Meadow Lane is putting on his "best" in preparation for the array of social activities which are taking place.

Meadow Lane residents who are hoping for clear skies and warm temperatures this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kucera and their children, Conald, Terry and Gerald.

This busy family will be taking a jaunt to Vaparaiso on Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Kucera's sister, Mrs. Albert Bejuantisky and then to Brainard to say hello to her brother, Joe Dworak. The Kucera family be returning home on Sunday evening.

Wichita, Kan., residents who are currently visiting at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Clifford Hanna and their daughter, Debra, are Mrs. Hanna's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox arrived in Lincoln on Monday and have been visiting with their son-in-law and daughter and family and other friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kitrell and their children, Dannie and Doug, entertained at a dinner party at their home on Tuesday evening.

Their guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kitrell and children, Connie, and Johnny.

The days ahead will be very busy ones for the members of the Leonard Smith family. The fun begins on Feb. 29 and there will be more on March 5. Two wedding anniversaries and two birthdays are to be celebrated.

The honored members will be Mr. and Mrs. Smith who will celebrate their 12th wedding anniversary tomorrow, (which really happens to be their third if you remember Leap Year) and then on March 1, Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Russell Smith will celebrate her birthday. This now leaves us with two more celebrations which will take place on March 5, the birthday date of Mr. and Mrs. Smith's son, Jeffrey, who will be five years old and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith's wedding anniversary.

Just to keep the many celebrations under control, there will be a family gathering at the Smith home this coming Sunday to honor all of the celebrants.

We also learned this morning that Mr. and Mrs. John Sommerville Jr. and their children, Cindy and Stephanie returned home on Monday from a three-day trip to Springfield, Ill.

The Sommerville family were the guests of Mr. Sommerville's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sommerville, and accompanying them back to Lincoln was Mr. Sommerville's sister, Mrs. Charles Brooks who will be visiting until this weekend.

CHATTER —in the— CORRIDOR

BY DIANNE FAGER

After the mighty Rockets' big upset over the Columbus "Discoverers," the team is prepared to overcome the margin against Omaha Bellevue. The "Chieftans" will be up against a determined group of Rockets. Best of luck boys, keep those victories coming. The game will be held Saturday night at Johnson Gym—8 o'clock.

This evening the Rockets were slated to challenge Norfolk High School for LN's last away-game of the 1964 season. Since Norfolk will be holding tournaments there tonight the game has been canceled.

Results from the elections held for underclass officers, show that Ron Goldenstein will preside over the junior class. Serving on the official staff with him will be vice-president, Terry Nelson; secretary Paul Moeller, and treasurer Karen Kendle.

The Sophomore class elected Bob Thacker to the presias vice-president; Linda Stansbury, secretary and Tim Hill as treasurer.

Mrs. Velma Snook, instructor of vocal music announced recently that LN's choir will present "My Fair Lady" sometime in May. Members of the choir now are checking out the speaking parts and music.

Senior Janet Moock has been announced as the district winner of the American Legion oratory contest. She will enter state competition at North Platte. The theme will remain the same as before, "The Constitution of the United States," which also will include the amendments. Janet won by giving one prepared speech and one extemporaneous talk.

Lincoln Northeast's semester honor roll convocation was held Tuesday in the North Gymnasium. Parents were invited to attend the ceremony.

The number of participants in the honors ceremonies greatly exceeded last year's program. This year there were 55 seniors; 58 juniors and 40 sophomores. The guest speaker for the convocation was Dr. Irwin Goldenstein of the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Watters, dean of girls, presented the honor roll students. The Triple Trio contributed the musical portion of the convocation by singing two songs, "Wishes" and "The House I Live In."

Coming soon "You Can't Take It With You." Come and See the Sycamore Family's crazy antics. You're sure to enjoy the play which will be presented on March 19 and 21.

Why Grow Old?

Leg Exercises

Josephine Lowman

I have received a letter which says:

"I am doing fine with the exercises for my legs. When I started my legs were about three inches apart midway between my hips and my knees. I looked as though I had bowlegged thighs! I am so happy! Now they are almost perfect. Thank you."

This condition is not unusual and harasses many women, most often underweight women. Bony structure, weight, and muscles, all play a part. I have found that it is extremely helpful if a woman who has this figure problem will form this habit.

This is really an exercise you can do many times a day without losing any time and without having others know that you are exercising. Whenever standing pull your legs together, or as close together as possible. Try to make your inner thigh lines touch. Hold until weary. Relax and repeat. Over a period of time this will make a difference. The following exercise is one this reader did regularly.

Lie on the floor on your left side with your body in a straight line from your head to your toes. Rest your head on your left arm and place your right hand on the floor in front of you for balance. Swing your top, or right leg, backwards and place your right foot on the floor. Keep your right leg in this position as you raise your left leg upward (not forward) as far as you can. Lower left leg. Continue lifting and lowering.

Turn onto your right side. Swing your left leg backward and place your left foot on the floor. Raise your right leg up and down until weary. Keep both knees as straight as possible.

If you would like to have my exercises for the most usual defects in leg contour, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs" to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

Test Dummy Play

B. Jay Becker

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the queen of diamonds. How would you play the hand?

	♠ AJ543 ♥ A82 ♦ A86 ♣ 75
♠ K92 ♥ K76 ♦ K94 ♣ AJ83	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Diamonds. North leads the ace of spades. Assuming that the trumps are divided 2-3, how would you play the hand?

	♠ Q6 ♥ 853 ♦ Q972 ♣ K754
♠ — ♥ AQ4 ♦ AKJ105 ♣ AJ1063	N W E S

1. There would be no difficulty making nine tricks if the spades were divided 3-2, which is the normal expectancy. In such case you would make either three or four notrump, depending on whether or not you lost a trick to the queen.

However, the spades might be divided 4-1—this occurs in 28 deals out of 100—and some provision should be made to cover this possibility. There is a sure way to guard against a 4-1 division and guarantee four spade tricks and the contract, and it should be applied in this hand.

Win the diamont with the king and play a low spade to the ace. Assuming that both opponents follow low, return a low spade from dummy. If South shows out or produces the ten or queen, the contract becomes certain when you take the trick with the king.

However, if South follows with a low spade, play the nine on it as the only way to insure the contract. If the nine loses to the ten or queen, four spade tricks become certain. If the nine wins the trick—proving that South started with Q-10-x-x—the outcome is equally certain, since a fourth spade trick can be developed after cashing the king. The suggested play is bound to work against either a 3-2 or 4-1 division.

2. Ruff the spade, take two rounds of trumps, and ruff another spade. Then play a club to the king. Assuming that both opponents follow suit, the contract can now be guaranteed.

Return a club from dummy. If South shows out, take the ace and exit with a club, forcing North to lead a heart or else play a spade on which you would discard a heart from dummy as you ruff in your hand. This gives you the rest of the tricks.

The same result is achieved if South follows low on the club lead from dummy. Finesse the jack. If it wins, you are sure of twelve tricks, while if it loses, North runs into the same endplay previously described.

Dear Abby

Ex-Football Player Should See A Doctor

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When my daughter was in college, she eloped with a 6-foot-2, eyes-of-blue football star. We were upset at first, but got over it. Here's the problem. Every time they stay over night with us, I have to air out all the bedding afterwards. My son-in-law has a very obnoxious odor to his feet. It about knocks you over. It penetrates the mattress and blankets, too. The sheets I can launder. I've asked my daughter to tell him to do something about it and she says there is nothing he can do .He washes his feet twice a day and wears only white socks. She said he had some kind of jungle fungus while he was in the Marines, but he's over that now. For a girl who couldn't stand the good clean odor of onions cooking, this takes the cake! Love isn't only blind—it smells. What do you suggest?

MIDWEST MOM

DEAR MOM: Your son-in-law needs desperately to see a doctor! And if he hasn't sense enough to go voluntarily, find somebody who is 6-foot-3 to drag him there.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who has been going with a 19-year-old college sophomore since September. He is only 5 ft. 4, and I am 5 ft. 3 in flats. My problem is that he has asked me to go to the Junior-Senior Prom with him. I know I have gone out on dates with him to many other things, but I don't want to be escorted to this important affair by a boy who is so short. I'm afraid we will look like a couple of midgets walking in. I don't know how to refuse him without hurting his feelings. Can you help me?

WISH HE WERE TALLER

DEAR WISH: Since you found this boy tall enough to date on other occasions, there is no way to refuse his prom invitation without hurting his feelings. If his size bothers you, quit dating him entirely, and let him find a girl who measures a man from his eyebrows up!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a girl and her boy friend had a fight because they didn't know who should hang up the telephone first. Maybe this will help. My boyfriend and I count one-two-three, together, and then we both hang up.

N. L.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I dine out often. She likes a second cup of coffee. When I ask the waitress for more coffee, she brings the pot over and starts to pour the coffee into the first cup. So then I say, "Please bring the lady a CLEAN cup," and she gives me a dirty look and says, "The lady HAS a clean cup. Nobody else used it." I am always polite. I tip well and never demand any special service. So what do I say to a waitress who gives me a sarcastic answer like this?

A MAN IN MANHATTAN

DEAR MAN: When requesting a second cup, say, "Please bring the lady a FRESH cup of coffee." And if the waitress is also fresh, you should see the manager.

Probers Get Peek At Baker Gambling Links, Want More

Washington (AP) —Senate investigators got a fleeting look at Bobby Baker's connections with big-time gambling entrepreneurs Thursday and clamored for more.

U.S. marshals were sent out to scour the country for a missing key witness, Edward Levinson, who operates the Fremont Hotel and gambling casino in Las Vegas and who referred to Baker as his "friend in Washington."

Counsel for the Senate Rules Committee, which is investigating Baker's rapid rise to affluence while holding down an influential Senate job, said Levinson has been keeping one jump ahead of its subpoena servers.

"It is beginning to look as though he is giving us the runaround," Counsel L. P. McLendon told reporters.

Sought by Sleuths

Also sought by committee sleuths is Benjamin sigelbaum, a Florida real estate man whose testimony is sought in connection with Baker's Florida land operations.

McLendon said Sigelbaum had indicated he would testify voluntarily, without being subpoenaed, but suddenly changed his mind.

The courtly committee lawyer said he has no conclusive proof that Levinson and Sigelbaum are evading subpoenas.

"But we are doing all we can to find these people," he said, adding that their absence "is gumming up our operation."

"We can tell you where they were, not where they are," McLendon told newsmen. He said he knows Sigelbaum was in Washington Monday, and Levinson was in Los Angeles part of this week.

'Some Difficulty'

Unless the two can be found in time, he said there will be no committee hearing Friday. McLendon said the committee also is "having some difficulty getting in touch with" Jack Cooper, another of Baker's Miami associates.

Levinson figured prominently in testimony Thursday by John B. Gates, a vice president of Pan American Airways which has an indirect interest in gambling casinos operated by its subsidiary resort hotels, and Edward Torres, a Levinson associate.

Gates is board chairman of the Intercontinental Hotels Corp., a Pan Am subsidiary that owns a string of 23 hotels in 19 foreign countries including resorts in Curacao, Puerto Rico and Santo Domingo which have gambling rooms.

Necessary

Gates said it is necessary to operate the casinos for competitive reasons and he said they are run in accordance with local laws.

Last year the Curacao concession was set up for bids, Gates said, and Baker arranged for him to meet with three Nevada men interested in taking over the casino.

In addition to Levinson, Gates said the men were Clifford Jones, former lieutenant governor of Nevada now reported in Europe, and Jacob Kozloff, who operates other Caribbean casinos with Jones.

Baker sat in on at least one of the meetings, Gates said, but "was not to be included" in the casino deal.

University Spring Term Enrollment Sets Mark

Spring term enrollment at the University of Nebraska has reached a record high of 11,056, up 10.8% from last year.

The 11,056 total represents a 1,075 increase from last year and includes 7,668 men and 3,388 women.

Others speaking at the workshop are Dr. William E. Cole, chairman of the council on dental payment plans of the Oklahoma State Dental Association and Dr. Frank L. Vandever Jr., of the Continental Casualty Insurance Co. in Chicago.

Big Eight Track Meet May Match 1958 For Records

. . . FIVE RECORDS EXPECTED TO FALL IN TWO-DAY TRACK CARNIVAL AT KANSAS CITY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Kansas City, Mo. — This year's Big Eight Indoor Track Championships here today and Saturday rate as a strong candidate to match the 1958 meet for record performances.

Big Eight trackmen have already bettered five records in pre-meet competition and if these five come through in the two-day track extravaganza here, 1958 will no longer be known as the year of the record-breakers.

The Big Eight record sheet shows 22 names, including ties in events such as the 60-yard dash and low hurdles. Five of the names were put in the book during the 1958 championships.

The years 1953, 1962, 1959 and 1963 contributed three names each while 1954, 1955, 1956, 1960 and 1961 each show one name.

Records that have been bettered already this year are in the 1,000-yard run, mile, 60-yard high hurdles, mile relay and pole vault.

And Nebraska's Gil Gebo has been within two-tenths of a second of Missouri's Greg Pelster's record in the 600-yard run at 1:11.1.

The Tigers' Robin Lingle has bettered records in both the 1,000 and mile and the Missouri sophomore is expected to crack both marks here.

Lingle has run the 1,000 in 2:08.9 and the mile in 4:03.2 although the 12-lap Municipal Auditorium track may cause him some trouble in the mile.

Wes Santee, the Big Eight record holder in the 880 and mile, and Bill Dotson, both of Kansas, are the only runners who have broken 4:10 in the 25 years since the auditorium track was installed.

Lingle's 880 clocking of 1:50.9 also is under Santee's record, but the Missourian is expected to pass up this race because it and the 1,000 are run back to back in tonight's preliminaries.

Jim Miller of Colorado owns a high hurdle clocking of :07.1, one-tenth of a second better than the record set by Nebraska's Keith Gardner in the 1958 meet.

The Big Eight pole vault record of 15-7¼ set by J. D. Martin of Oklahoma in 1960 will be the aim of Kansas' Floyd Manning when the pole pushers swing into action at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Manning has swung his frame over the 15-8½ mark earlier this winter.

Two mile relay teams — Oklahoma State and Colorado — have been under the 3:18.0 Big Eight record held by the Cowboys since the 1962 meet.

But neither team has been consistent at that figure and in fact, both have been beaten by Nebraska in dual competition for the distance.

Oklahoma State has run a quarter around the eight furlongs in 3:16.1 and Colorado has been timed in 3:17.0.

Missouri is given the nod by most track observers to unseat defending champion Nebraska after only one year in the top spot for the Huskers.

However, the Tigers are pursued closely in many events where they hold the top pre-meet performances.

Missouri's Gene Crews and Bob Neuman are only inches ahead of Oklahoma's Dick Inman in the shot put and Tiger Ross Tunnell leads the Kansas duo of Tyce Smith and Charles Twiss by less than an inch in the high jump.

And the Jayhawks Tonnie Coane trails Missouri's Charles Conrad by only two-tenths of a second in the 880 on the pre-meet chart.

Tie On Form Chart

Kansas City, Mo.—The pre-meet form chart on the Big Eight Indoor Track Championships opening here tonight came up a tie during some post-midnight figuring.

But the chances of the annual indoor carnival winding up in a tie here are somewhat less than was the chance that Cassius Clay would be heavyweight champion of the world.

If you think it can end in a tie, just ask Nebraska coach Frank Sevigne and members of his 1962 Cornhusker squad. It can come within 7-12 of a point of being a tie. But a deadlock, not likely.

So, if you have a tie between Kansas and Missouri on the pre-meet chart, which do you pick. You pick it. We'd rather not. Remember this corner was one of those who picked Sonny Liston.

Nebraska rates a strong third spot on the pre-meet figuring with 37 points, 13 behind the two expected leaders.

Charts Wrong Before

But the form charts have been wrong before. Start with the Clay-Liston fight. Go from there to last fall's World Series between the Yankees and Dodgers. And if you need further convincing take a look at last spring's form chart for the Big Eight Outdoor Track Championships.

On the outdoor chart last spring, Kansas was rated no better than fifth. But the Jayhawks came through with one of the major Big Eight track upsets by winning the crown.

Form charts are fine for conversation pieces, but if all track athletes performed according to the chart, there would be no need to transport them here to compete.

But fortunately for spectators, runners, jumpers and weight men do not always perform as well in the Big Eight meet as they do in duals. Others perform better.

A prime example of flunking the major test was Nebraska's Victor Brooks who went into last year's indoor meet with several broad jumps near the 25-foot mark. Yet the Jamaican athlete couldn't reach 20 feet with a boost when the test came here.

A perfect example of how an athlete can go the other way also is a Nebraskan.

When the Big Eight milers gathered in Manhattan, Kan., last spring, Husker Ray Stevens was somewhere back in the pack, according to comparative times with a pre-meet best of 4:13.4.

But when the leather-lunged distance runners had completed four trips around the K-State track, Stevens was in front with a Big Eight record time of 4:04.9.

No one can explain what makes this difference. But it's one of the things that keeps athletics interesting.

'ALL I WANT IS PEACE'

Clay Discloses Muslim Beliefs

. . . 'RELIGION BROUGHT WIN'

Miami Beach (AP)—"All I want is peace—peace for myself and peace for the world," the newly-crowned heavyweight boxing champion, Cassius Clay said Thursday in revealing that he had become a member of the Black Muslins.

"My religion is Islam," the 22-year-old Louisville fighter told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "I believe Allah is God. I think this is the true way to save the world which is on fire with hate."

He said he had made an extended study of the religion over a period of months and had become convinced it is "the truth and the light."

Sees The Light

"A rooster crows only when it sees the light," he said. "Put him in the dark and he'll never crow. I have seen the light and I'm crowing."

Clay, who stopped the formidable Sonny Liston in the seventh round of their 15-round title fight here Tuesday night, was relaxing at his temporary quarters when he was told that the leader of the black supremacy sect, Elijah Muhammad, had told a meeting in Chicago that the new ring champion was a disciple.

"That is true, and I am proud of it," Clay said with obvious deep feeling. "But what is all the commotion about? Nobody asks other people about their religion. But now I am the champion, I am the king, so it seems the world is all shook up about what I believe.

"You call it Black Muslims, I don't. This is a name that has been given to us by the press. The real name is Islam. That means peace. Yet people brand us a hate group. They say we want to take over the country. They say we're Communists.

'Sweetest People'

"That is not true. Followers of Allah are the sweetest people in the world, and there are 750 million of them—in Africa, Asia, all over the world.

"They don't carry knives. They don't tote weapons. They pray five times a day. The women wear dresses that come all the way to the floor and they don't commit adultery. The men don't marry white women.

"All they want to do is live in peace with the world. They don't hate anybody. They don't want to stir up any kind of trouble. All the meetings are held in secret, without any fuss or hate mongering."

Responsible For Win

Clay acknowledged that his religion, which he said has brought him an "inner peace," was responsible for his sensational upset victory over Liston, an overwhelming 7-1 favorite.

"God was with me—I couldn't have done it without God," he added.

The new champion said he was disturbed to find that the Islam group had drawn the fire of integrationist forces among the Negro people.

"We believe that forced and token integration is but a temporary and not an everlasting solution to the Negro problem," he added. "It is merely a pacifier. We don't think one people should force its culture upon another.

Requests

"I get telephone calls every day. They want me to carry signs. They want me to picket. They tell me it would be a wonderful thing if I married a white woman because this would be good for brotherhood.

"I don't want to be blown up. I don't want to be washed down sewers. I just want to be happy with my own kind."

Clay said it was only nature that people of like culture and heritage should live together.

"Animals in the jungle flock together," he said. "Mexicans, Puerto Ricans, Chinese and Japanese all live better if they are together.

"I don't like hot Mexican food and I would be unhappy if somebody made me eat it. At the same time, you may not like what I like—turnip greens and hominy grits, or country music. If you don't like it you shouldn't have to accept it."

Resents

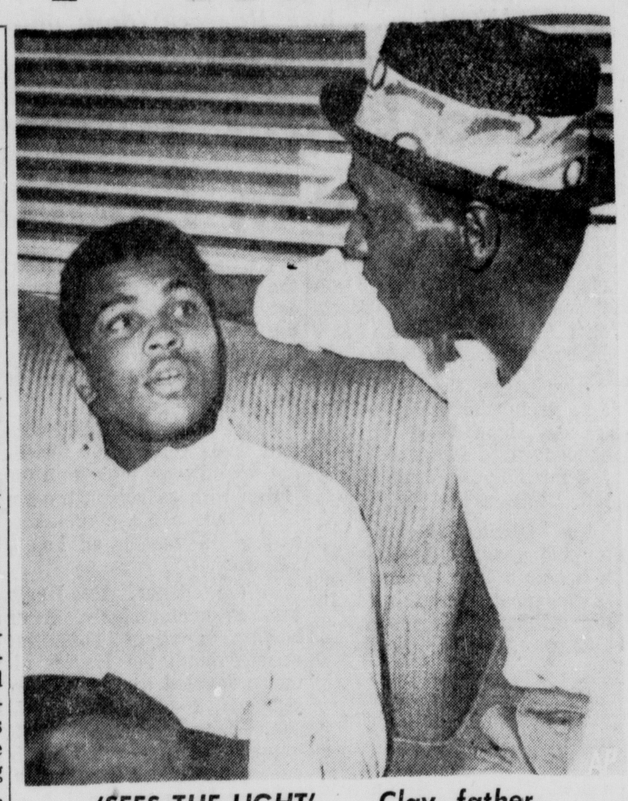

The youthful, boyish-faced fighter, descendent of a runaway Kentucky slave, said he resented the fact that some people attached "dire motives" to his Islam connections.

"I am a good boy. I never have done anything wrong," he insisted. "I have never been in jail. I have never been in court.

"I don't join any integration marches. I don't pay any attention to all those white women who wink at me. I don't carry signs.

"I don't impose myself on people who don't want me. If I go in somebody's house where I'm not welcome, I am uncomfortable. So, I stay away.

"I like white people. I like my own people. They can live together without infringing on each other. You can't condemn a man for wanting peace—if you do, you condemn peace itself."

'SEES THE LIGHT' . . . Clay, father.

Negotiations Recess Without Agreement

. . . MORNING SESSION SET TODAY

Kansas City (AP)—A meeting between city officials and Charles O. Finley was recessed late Thursday night without an agreement on a lease for Municipal Stadium.

Another session was set for 10 a.m. Friday.

Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, flew back to Kansas City from Chicago and met with members of the City Council nearly three hours.

At a morning news conference in Chicago Finley said Kansas City officials inserted a dozen new provisions, including an irrevocable clause, in a proposed lease Wednesday.

Finley said he phoned Joe Cronin, president of the American League, and "brought him up to date."

"I stated to Cronin that this irrevocable lease was not in the proposal the Kansas City council originally presented to me," said Finley. "I had agreed to a normal four-year lease.

"I also stated to Cronin that if he would send me a telegram suggesting, recommending or requesting me to sign the lease with an irrevocable clause, that I would sign it immediately.

"He (Cronin) did not indicate any interest whatsoever in sending me such a telegram, but suggested that I return again to Kansas City and have my attorneys again meet with the city officials.

"I'm ready, and willing to sign anything I had agreed to before."

Finley said the "irrevocable" clause meant that he could not break the proposed four-year lease for any reason whatsoever. A "normal" lease, he said, would permit some form of relief if he went bankrupt, such as possibly getting league approval to shift his franchise.

"They wanted the two four-year options to be irrevocable," Finley said.

Finley Agreeable

"I was agreeable to a lease, even without the old lease escape clause for poor attendance, and I would have had to remain in Kansas City at least four years unless I got league approval to move.

"We hope to sign a lease with Kansas City. But I'm not signing any lease that contains an irrevocable clause. All I want is the lease with the terms as stated in the city's original offer."

Another new stipulation still under debate, Finley said, was city insistence the A's pay for three guards, on a 24-hour daily basis, for 12 months at the stadium.

Midland Eyes Tri-State Crown

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Midland College can lock up the Tri-State Conference basketball championship tonight with a win over Sioux Falls. The Warriors were extended to a 90-88 overtime victory when the two schools met in South Dakota earlier this month, but things figure to be easier for My Draemel's boys on their home court.

If Sioux Falls, 3-8 in loop play, concocts an upset over the Illinois-inspired Warriors (9-1), Yankton (8-3), the defending champion, can grab a share of the title when its hosts Midland Saturday night.

Elsewhere the spotlight is on tournament play with Central Intercollegiate Conference activity concluded and only one game, matching the top and bottom teams, left on the Nebraska College Conference agenda tonight.

Hastings, wearing a pair of state college crowns, is headed for a berth in the NAIA District 11 playoffs. The Broncos wrapped up NCAA laurels with an 80-63 thrashing of defending titlist Peru, then were awarded state supremacy and first place in the experimental Great Plains Association with an 81-80 overtime decision over Nebraska Wesleyan.

Wesleyan will compete in the Midwest Regional playoffs for a spot in the NCAA College Division Tournament. Midland is another Nebraska team slated for NAIA postseason activity.

Other activity includes the Concordia Invitational Tournament. Westmar meets Concordia of St. Louis at 7 p.m. tonight with the Seward hosts tackling Concordia of River Forest, Ill., at 9. The winners and losers will be paired Saturday.

O'Hara Races To 2nd Swiftest Indoor Mile

New York (AP) — Redhaired little Tom O'Hara of Chicago flashed to the second fastest time ever in an indoor mile 3:58.5 and set an indoor 1,500-meter record of 3:43.6 Thursday night in the Knights of Columbus Indoor Track and Field Games.

O'Hara, a 21-year-old from Loyola of Chicago, peeled off a 56.6 final quarter mile after getting a good pace from Italy's Francesco Bianchi and Bob Schul of Oxford, Ohio.

Preps On Stretch Run Before Tourney

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln's prep basketball squads add the final touches to their tournament plans as they complete their regular season play this weekend.

Pius X is the only team slated for double duty, playing host to Nebraska City and surprising Fairbury on Friday and Saturday night.

Fairbury ambushed Southeast and Northeast on its home court during the past month and cracked the top ten in Class A for the first time on the strength of these wins and an overtime loss to top-rated Bellevue.

Bellevue, only once-beaten team in the Class A ranks, joins Fairbury in a Saturday night invasion of the Capital City.

The Chieftains test Northeast's string of successes at Johnson Gymnasium. Ed Johnson's Rockets have a perfect 5-0 mark at the Lincoln High arena.

University High, primed for a darkhorse role in tournament play, has a chance for another upset as it meets Class A Blair at Southeast Friday night.

Southeast and Lincoln High close their seasons on the road. The Knights have the toughest assignment in tackling powerful Boys Town, while the Links go up against Omaha South.

The weekend outlook:

FRIDAY

Nebraska City at Pius X — Thunderbolts' wide open offense will be too much for the visitors.

Southeast at Boys Town —Cowboys too tough to handle on their home court.

Lincoln High at Omaha South—Links rebound from last week's double setback.

Blair v. University High at Southeast — Tutors get another crack at a Class A opponent, this time they win.

SATURDAY

Bellevue at Northeast — Top-ranked Chieftains have too much height for the Rockets.

Fairbury at Pius X —Interesting contrast of styles here. Go with the Thunderbolts.

Senate Will Probe Promotion Pact

Washington (AP) — A Senate subcommittee announced Thursday it will inquire into a contract which could set up a return bout between Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay.

But a holder of the agreement advised the senators to "quit wasting the taxpayers' money, the contract is perfectly legal."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the Senate antitrust subcommittee will hold a "short set of hearings," probably next week, into the contract which gives Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., exclusive rights to promote the next bout for Clay, who won Liston's heavyweight title in an upset Tuesday night.

Witnesses

The senator indicated both Clay and Liston probably would be called as witnesses.

Hart acted after reading a newspaper report that Inter-Continental, which promoted the Tuesday fight, paid Clay $50,000 for the right to stage the next match and name the opponent.

In accordance with a rule adopted by the World Boxing Association last year, the Liston-Clay fight did not include a rematch clause.

Hart said:

"If this report is true, it means that a boxing promotion corporation, in which Liston owns 50 per cent of the stock, entered into an agreement with Clay for $50,000 prior to Tuesday night's fight for the purpose of promoting Clay's next fight.

"This is not the kind of situation that to an impartial observer is calculated to improve confidence in the boxing business."

At Miami Beach, Jack Nilon, Liston's adviser and an Inter-Continental stockholder, made the remark about the taxpayers' money and said he'd be glad to send Hart a copy of the contract to show it is legal.

Half 'Wrong'

Garland Cherry, Inter-Continental attorney, said in a telephone interview from his office in Chester, Pa., that Hart is in error about the extent of Liston's holding in Inter-Continental.

Cherry said the boxer owns only 22½ per cent of the stock with the rest held by the Nilon brothers, Bob and Jack, and by Cherry.

Cherry went on:

"I'll save the senator the time and money for an investigation by confirming, positively, that the story of the contract's existence is true.

"We took a gamble. There was nothing illegal with it.

Tournament officials said the first round would be played Friday weather permitting, and the fourth round was rescheduled from Sunday to Monday.

Omaha's Cooper, Gatus Advance To Semifinals

. . . IN GLOVES TOURNAMENT

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — A. C. Hill of Indianpolis outpointed Jesse Valdez of Fort Worth, Tex. Thursday night in another 147-pound-class surprise in the National Golden Gloves Tournament quarter-finals.

Two other champions—William Douglas, defending the 160-pound title, and Harley Cooper, in the 175-pound class—advanced to Friday night's semifinals and finals.

Douglas, of Columbus, Ohio, outpointed Nathan Lattimore of St. Louis in a hard-fought match.

Cooper, of Omaha, Neb. outpointed Steve Attlebury of Cincinnati in his first match and stopped William Anderson of Louisville in the second. A wicked left hook put Anderson down for a mandatory eight-count in the third round and another finished the fight a few seconds later.

Another Omahan, John Gatus, advanced in the heavyweight division by outpointing Ray Burniston of Muncie, Ind. Omaha's other quarterfinalist, Claude Crawford, was outpointed by Tony Gonzales of Denver in the 126-pound class.

Valdez was impressive Tuesday night in an upset victory by outpointing Wade Smith of Muncie, Ind.

In a savage battle Thursday night, Hill took a narrow edge. The Texans' nose was bloodied but he continued to press and Hill came back strong.

Despite two losses, the Fort Worth team remained atop team standings with 12 points. Omaha trailed with 11 and tied at 10 were Roswell, N.M., Cincinnati and Louisville.

Tough Tommy Hale of Louisville had all he could handle in a 160-pound bout with Pete Esquibel of Roswell. Hale barely outpointed the New Mexican and the decision drew boos.

Another action-filled match was John Letourneau's outpointing of Kenneth Maples of Kansas City. Letrouneau was stopped later at one minute of the second round by Charles Mayes of Toledo.

There will be 16 semifinal fights Friday night and the eight championship matches.

Alvo-Eagle Joins Elmwood In Finals

A pair of well-tutored and classy basketball teams advanced to the Lincoln Northeast Class D district finals Friday night.

Alvo-Eagle, the sixth-rated team in the state, outdistanced Mead 76-60 in the opened, and Elmwood, now 14-6 for the year, dropped Yutan, 92-79 in the nightcap.

The Golden Eagles, 19-1 for the year, and Elmwood, a two-time loser to Alvo-Eagle this past season, meet in the district finale tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Northeast gym.

By far the most impressive performance of the night was turned in by Elmwood junior 6-0 Bryce Doebele, who scored 33 points and played brilliantly in his team's high-scoring romp.

Doebele received plenty of help, however. Ballhandler Larry Ahrens scored 22 and Jim Charling had 16.

Yutan trailed throughout the game and came the closest at 30-27 with 5:33 left in the second period. Afterwards, Elmwood pulled away and held leads of 19 points at times.

Glenn Sievers, saddled with four fouls throughout the final period, was high man for Yutan with 24 points. John Kirchman, a 5-9 playmaker, canned 19—mostly on long set-shots.

In the opener, Alvo-Eagle won unspectactularly. After holding a slight 13-8 first quarter lead, the Eagles almost doubled the score by halftime, 31-16. Doug Johnson, 6-4 center, pushed in 24 points and Bob Trunkenbolz collected 16 from the outside.

Mead, unsuccessful but game to the end, was paced by Pat Coyl's 18 points and Dave Anderson's 12. Lack of height and skill acourt frustrated Mead's play.

Silver Creek Gains Berth

Shelby — Silver Creek, with its balanced scoring, beat Prague, 50-38, Thursday night, in the Class D District 7 finals.

Terry Petrzelka stole the spotlight with 25 points, scoring 19 in the second half. Petrzelka's 25 and Jim Kondrak's two points were all Prague managed after the intermission.

Petrzelka, a 6-3 sophomore, had trouble beating Silver Creek's zone press as a guard, but was unstoppable after moving into the post position mid-way through the second quarter.

Petrzelka's effort however, was not enough. Silver Creek battled the Panthers neck and neck until near the end of the first quarter.

Then the Tigercats pushed in 11 straight points before Prague could get on the board again. The score at the half stood at 22-17.

Petrzelka's heroics began in the second half, but so did those of Doug Cowgill, the Tigercats' hustling guard. He dumped in three straight setshots to keep Silver Creek's lead intact. The two teams gave basket for basket the remainder of the game and Coach Evert Stokes, in his first year, picked up the district trophy.

Next stop for Silver Creek will be Lincoln where they will meet Firth next Thursday in hopes of a state tournament berth.

Silver Creek played the last three quarters without playmaking guard Dan Oppliger who was injured in a first-quarter collision.

Beaver Crossing Takes Title, 66-41

. . . HESER HITS 34

Seward—Garland managed to keep Beaver Crossing under 100 this time, but there wasn't much it could do about the margin as the Beavers rolled to a 66-41 victory in the Class D District 6 basketball final here Thursday.

Seeking to gain revenge for an earlier 110-76 defeat at the hands of the state's fifth-ranked team, Garland could do little but watch helplessly as Mike Heser and his teammates deminated the rebounding and turned the contest into a rout early in the second quarter.

Heser pumped in 34 points for the Beavers, now 21-1 for the season. Gary Bluhm added 13 and Larry Stutzman 11 for the winners, who have lost only to No. 4 Hordville this season.

Grland star Gene Mayfield collected 23 points, but 12 of them came in the final quarter when the contest was on ice. And Larry Ahlschwede's eight points constituted the next-best Panther effort.

The contest was reasonably close through the first period, which ended at 12-9 with the Beavers in front. Garland, in fact, had taken a brief 7-6 lead at one stage of the quarter.

But Garland, which finishes with a 14-7 record, couldn't find the range, and the Panthers were getting only one shot in the face of ferocious defensive rebounding by Beaver Crossing. And there was no stopping the inside shooting by Heser or, at this point, the long-range firing by Stutzman.

Beaver Crossing zipped into a 30-17 halftime lead, and from there on the trip to the regional tournament was easy.

Beaver Crossing	12	18	19	17—66
Garland	9	8	7	17—41

Beaver Crossing—Heser 34, Bluhm 13, Stutzman 11, Eberspacher 4, White 4.
Garland—Mayfield 23, Ahlschwede 8, Metzger 5, Roth 4, J. Kriesser 1.

East Butler Victor Over Utica, 49-42

York — Unbeaten East Butler, top-rated team in Class C, dumped defending state champion Utica from the tournament trail with a 49-42 win here Thursday night.

The semifinal round victory put the Tigers into the championship game Saturday night against once-beaten Henderson, a 54-42 victor over Waco in semifinal action.

East Butler's 20th straight victory came as a result of some clutch free throw shooting in the stretch run. The Tigers converted on 11 of 12 charity tosses in the final period as they overcame a 29-28 deficit with a big 21-point quarter.

It was the third win of the season by the East Butler quintet over the defending champions.

Henderson, paced by rangy Ron Regier's 32 points, pulled away from Waco midway in the third period in registering its 18th win in 19 starts.

East Butler	11	5	12	21—49
Utica	7	14	8	13—42

Scheuerman Resigns As Iowa Coach

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — Sharm Scheuerman, named Iowa basketball coach six years ago when he was only 23, resigned Thursday, effecitve after what probably will be his worst season.

The Hawkeyes, with four Big Ten foes still to be played, have a 2-8 conference record and have won 7 of 19 games this season.

Scheuerman, a former Iowa standout, said he is resigning to enter private business.

Athletic Director Forest Evashevski said Scheuerman's decision "was not prompted by this season. I am sure he was disappointed that the team did not mature as rapidly as he had anticipated."

"This was his decision," Evashevski said.

Scheuerman was named head coach in the spring of 1958 to replace Bucky O'Connor, who was killed in a traffic accident.

De Witt Needs Only 2 Wins For State Trip

Crete—Defending state Class D basketball champion De Witt moved within two victories of a return trip to the state tournament here Thursday night by turning back Plymouth, 70-65, in the District finals.

De Witt will play in the Beatrice Playoff Wednesday against the winner of the Falls City district. The other half of the bracket will pair the district champions from Odell and Peru.

De Witt had beaten Plymouth in two regular season meetings and this was the closest of the three games. But there was actually little doubt in this one.

De Witt, now 17-2, took the lead at 11-9 midway in the first period and never trailed. The Panthers held leads up to 13 points.

Plymouth, which closes out the season with a 17-7 record, made a token run at De Witt late in the game but the Pilgrims couldn't put together any kind of consistent comeback effort.

De Witt was paced by Doug Tietjen's 25 points and by Larry Wattjes' 19. Tietjen hit 8 of 11 shots from the field, many of them follow shots as he hawked the boards well.

Actually the Pilgrims outshot the champs in percentage, 47 to 40, and matched them in number of fielders. But De Witt had 24 opportunities from the charity stripe and made 16 of them. Plymouth hit 11 of 16, four for four in the final 30 seconds.

DeWitt	24	18	14	14—70
Plymouth	19	13	15	18—65

De Witt—Pieper 10, Wattjes 19, Tietjen 25, Jarchow 9, Strokebrand 7.

WOLMAN TABS KUHARICH TO COACH PHILADELPHIA

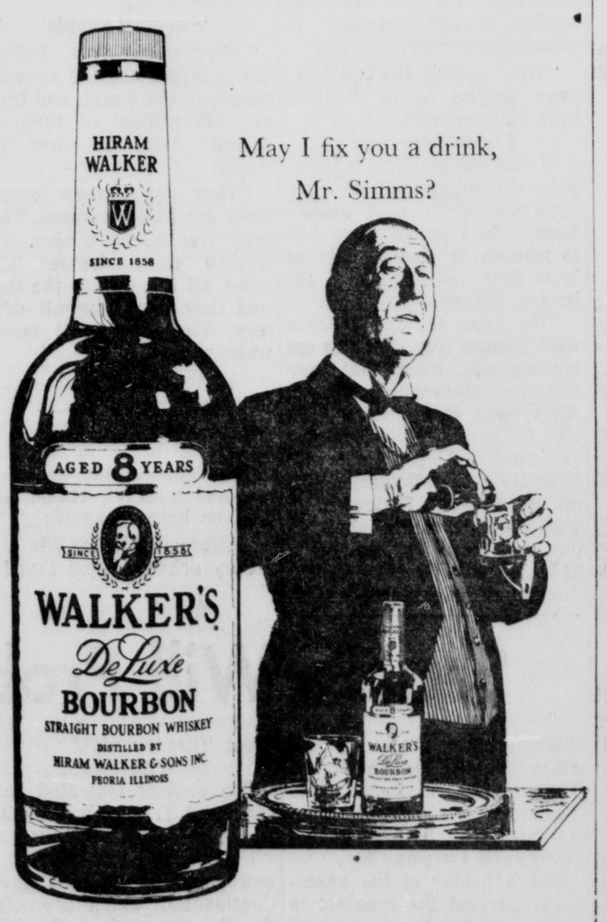

Philadelphia (AP)—Joe Kuharich was named head coach of National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles Thursday night, ending a one-year coaching hiatus for the veteran pro.

The 46-year-old Kuharich quit as coach at his alma mater, Notre Dame, after the 1962 season to take a post as supervisor of officials for the NFL. His return to coaching was announced here at a news conference by Eagles' owner Jerry Wolman.

Kuharich's signing of a four-year contract thus ended Wolman's quest for a coach begun last Jan. 21, the day the 37-year-old millionaire building contractor's $5.5 million dollar purchase of the Eagles was approved by the league. Wolman's first official action after taking control was to fire coach Nick Skorich.

Kuharich, however, was not Wolman's first, nor even second choice during the young owner's hunt for a coach.

Wolman tried unsuccessfully to hire Norm Von Brocklin away from the Minnesota Vikings, then sought to lure ex-Cleveland Browns Coach Paul Brown into the fold. He also reportedly made overtures to Jim Trimble, former Eagles' coach now in Canadian football.

Seven Enter Hall Of Fame

Canton, Ohio (AP)— Seven new members of pro football's Hall of Fame were announced Thursday, joining the 17 charter members installed last year in the city where the National Football League was founded in 1920.

Six players from the 1920s and 1930s and Art Rooney, founder and owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, will be inducted formally Sept. 8 in ceremonies preceding the annual Hall of Fame game.

All seven of the new members are living and are expected to participate in the ceremonies in September.

Four linemen — center George Trafton, tackle Ed Healey, tackle Roy (Link) Lyman and August (Mike) Michalske—were named along with two backs — fullback Clark Hinkle and halfback Jimmy Conzelman, who also was active as a coach and executive with several clubs.

Members voted in a year ago were Sammy Baugh, Bert Bell, Joe Carr, Dutch Clark, Red Grange, George Halas, Mel Hein, Pete Henry, Cal Hubbard, Don Hutson, Curley Lambeau, Johnny (Blood) McNally, Tim Mara, George P. Marshall, Ernie Nevers, Bronko Nagurski and Jim Thorpe.

League Attendance To Be 3rd Highest

. . . IN BIG 8 HISTORY

Kansas City (AP) — Big Eight basketball home attendance this season is certain to be the third highest in conference history, with six teams up from last season.

One of the two teams down from '63 is Kansas State, which leads the conference on an average of 10,438 for eight games. The other team down is Iowa State, fourth in the league with a 5,346 average.

The conference average is 5,397 for 74 home games with 13 games left. Kansas State has three home games left and it's likely the league will reach 475,000, or an average of 5,460. Last season it was 5,008.

Best attendance year in Big Eight history was 1957, when the average was 6,922. This was Wilt Chamberlain's sophomore year at Kansas and the Jayhawks set a league record with an average of 15,500. Next best was 1958, Chamberlain's last year, when the league average was 6,059.

K-State is the Big Eight attendance champ for the past 13 years. By the end of this season, K-State will be over 1.4 million, Kansas will be over 900,000 and the conference over 5 million for the 13 years.

Colorado's average this season of 5,809 is its best since 1956, Missouri's 3,371 is best since 1958, Nebraska's 3,782 is best since 1961 and Oklahoma State's 5,161 best since 1961.

Mantle Signs For $100,000

Fort Lauderdale (AP) — Mickey Mantle, a victim of crippling injuries that sidelined him most of last year, signed another healthy $100,000 baseball contract with the New York Yankees Wednesday and set 150 games as his target for this season.

"If I play 150 games, I'll be happy," the star outfielder said at a press conference during which the announcement, including the salary, was made. "My leg feels greatly improved and I see no reason why it shouldn't be all right all season."

The Yankee star is the second highest paid major leaguer. Willie Mays of San Francisco signed for an estimated $105,000 last month. Only three other baseball stars earned $100,000 or more in one year. They were Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards. Williams reportedly received $125,000 toward the end of his career.

The Havelock Lions defeated Malone Center, 48-6 Thursday night in the opening game of the Little Fry basketball league. In the second game, University Place whipped King Dollar, 39-18, and Globe Laundry stopped Eagle Raceway, 34-10, in the closer.

Emporia State Wins CIC Title

Omaha (AP) —Emporia of Kansas won the Central Intercollegiate Conference basketball championship Thursday night by defeating Omaha, 78-68.

Omaha held a 36-35 lead at the half and the score was tied at 44-44 and 48-48 before Emporia went ahead to stay.

Dennis Bolen had 25 points for Emporia and Sam Singleton got 23 for Omaha.

Cincinnati Drops Omaha Crew, 4-2

Omaha (AP)—A pair of rookies sent up from the Hamilton, Ont., Redwings Junior A team, figured Thursday in Cincinnati's 4-2 win over league-leading Omaha in the Central Professional Hockey League.

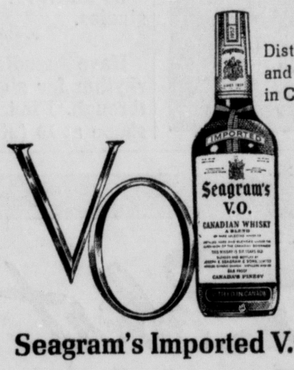

Centerman Jim Peters, scored his first goal in professional hockey and rookie Nick Libbet shared in the assist. Both joined the club in Omaha. Barrie Ross scored two goals for Cincinnati.

Cincinnati's cause was helped considerably by the 24 saves racked up by goalie Bob Champoux.

POSTCARD by Stan Kallaplaca

If you are interested in your personal rhythm, dig this, Man is at his best at 10 in the morning and at 7 o'clock at night.

This is the result of an interesting study made in Sweden — an industrious people, the Swedes. They decided to find out when man is most industrious. And that is what they found out.

☆ ☆ ☆

If you know when your personal rhythm is hitting the high notes, you can organize your work to take advantage of it.

At 10 in the morning (after coffee?). And at 7 at night (after two martinis?).

At 1 a.m. your rythm is at its lowest point.

Down tools, knock off. At 1 a.m. you are wasting time.

☆ ☆ ☆

What I liked about this study is that the information arrived at 10 a.m. — by the rythmic postman. Just as I was coming to full flowering.

This is the time I have had my coffee.

The time when the blank, white paper is in the typewriter.

When we fiddle with pencil sharpeners and hope the phone will ring. Anything!

This study arrived. And immediately I sat down to study it. Saved by the Swedes and the U.S. Postoffice! Another five minutes and I would have had to start working.

☆ ☆ ☆

Once I studied a whole ship's engine room full of Swedes. They came to their rhythmic flowing at 1 a.m. —the time when you should be at your worst.

By 1 a.m. they were roaring drunk — singing a song which says: "The man who won't drink the first one, won't get the second one." Then, "the man who won't drink the second one, won't get the third one."

By 1 a.m. they would be in the twenties.

They drank a native sugar cane alcohol. We bought it at that time in the banana tropics for 50 cents a gallon. It was pure clear like water.

At 10 a.m. in the morning, there was only one Swede on watch in the engine room. He could hardly hold his aching head up.

So much for these scientific studies.

☆ ☆ ☆

Have studied my own rhythm for signs of a breakthrough. Find I am in great shape at 10 (after coffee) and 7 (after martini) but offbeat when I think of work.

My natural rhythm is destroyed by such a prospect. And I often put it off for a more rhythmic day.

At 1 a.m. I am flaked out and wouldn't know if I had rhythm or was on a roller coaster. I sleep firmly. It is bad enough facing the 10 a.m. day without staying awake worrying about how low your rhythm is.

☆ ☆ ☆

The human ear is less acute to high frequency sounds between 4 a.m. and 5 a.m.

This is a point developed by the study. I assume that if you are working in high frequency sounds, you shouldn't do it at these dawning hours.

The high frequency sounds that seem acute to me are made by the garbage men.

The garbage men come between 4 a.m. and 5 a.m. And of all the high frequency banging of garbage can lids! The scraping of cans dragged along cement!

When this high frequency starts, my ears are acute as can be.

The high frequency is so acute it comes right through two pillows pulled over my ears.

All of this scientific study shows things which may make life easier: Strike while your rhythm is playing good —while it is playing, "My Sugar Calls Me Sweetheart."

Do not use up your talent at 1 a.m. while it is playing "Sleepy Time Gal."

And if you are ducking the whole problem, there is nothing like a Swedish study. Study it until your rhythm slows down to martini time.

Tax Schedules Due March 2nd

Nebraska residents are reminded that midnight March 2 is the deadline for filing their personal property schedules with the assessor's office.

The deadline was extended because March 1 is on a Sunday this year.

Failure to file results in a penalty of 50% on tangible property and five times the amount of the intangible property.

The penalty may be waived by the state tax commissioner on written proof that failure to file was an honest mistake and not an attempted fraud.

Tories Put Brakes On Britain's Budding Boom

London (AP)—The government put the brakes on Britain's budding economic boom Thursday by tightening up on credit. The Bank of England's loan rate was raised to five per cent from four per cent.

To jeers and shouts from the opposition Labor Party, Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald Maulding told the House of Commons that interest rates abroad have gone up since the bank rate was set at four per cent 13 months ago, and Britain is simply trying to get in line.

But he added that the British economy has been growing at a rate of six per cent during the past year, and that was too fast.

This is an election year in Britain and the state of the economy is a major issue.

Taken together, the two statements illustrate the classic dilemma for the British economy.

No sooner does British business start expanding than the international financial community begins to fear that inflation will spring up and the British pound will drop in value.

To keep any boom going, export trade must remain strong and the pound must be kept stable to underwrite international transactions. But keeping the pound stable sometimes demands steps to restore international confidence in it—such as cutting down on credit. This in turn limits business expansion and slows down a boom.

The United States reacted calmly to the new rate which could affect the outflow of American gold, though probably not seriously. The U.S. Treasury indicated it has no plans to retaliate.

Guarding U.S. Gold Touchier

New York (AP)— Guarding the U.S. gold reserve at Ft. Knox from foreigners who might want some more of it is a delicate balancing act today. And the Bank of England isn't helping the equilibrium by raising its bank rate.

With one hand Uncle Sam is trying to halt the flow of dollars to countries where they can earn higher returns (as they will be able to in Britain). With the other he is trying to make investments yield more at home—but without putting the brakes on faster economic growth.

The idea is to make money dear enough here but not too dear.

The rise in British interest rates Thursday from four to five per cent to halt inflation there—with several continental countries expected to raise rates further—complicates the job for U.S. monetary authorities. But they have the machinery to deal with this. And, indeed, they have the active cooperation of other leading financial nations.

Their chief task is more likely to be handling the uncertainties in the domestic economy, sharpened Wednesday by the signing of the federal income tax cut into law.

How the American economy reacts to having $11 billion more spending money — inflation, boom-and-bust, indifference, continued dificits in the balance of payments with other lands—could affect world opinion of the future value of the American dollar. And it is any loss of confidence in the dollar which Washington most wants to avoid.

Chimps Place Humans In Class With Baboons

Washington (AP)—A blonde, pony-tailed scientist, back from a long stay in the African wilds, said Thursday that chimpanzees apparently regard humans as inferior creatures—in the same class as baboons.

Biologist Jane Goodall, a pretty 29-year-old Briton who worked alone among the chimps, reported also that they have developed on their own some living techniques resembling human ones.

For example, she said, they make ingenious drinking utensils from crumpled leaves and use leaves as napkins to wipe their sticky hands after eating. Also, they steal blankets from researchers' tents — though not for use as bedclothes—and the males display a "courtship swagger" when love blooms.

JANE GOODALL

Tanned, Slender

Miss Goodall—a tanned, slender girl—has spent most of the last 3½ years in the ape country of East Africa, specifically the 30 square miles of forested valleys and treeless ridges of Tanganyika's Gome Stream Reserve. She's here to give a lecture sponsored by the National Geographic Society which has supported her work.

Society officials say the English girl is the first human to study chimps in their native habitat for any extensive length of time.

At a news conference, Miss Goodall said that when she first showed up in the chimps' bailiwick back in 1960 they wouldn't let her come within 500 yards before scrambling away. But gradually—especially during her last tour of nine months' duration—they got relatively chummy, even allowing her to touch them, she said.

Friendliness?

"Would you call it friendliness?" a reporter asked.

"Not really," she replied in her clipped English. "It's more like a tolerance . . . I think they looked upon me as an inferior—like a baboon."

Closest to a pal among them, she said, was a big male chimp, aged somewhere between 15 and 25 years, whom she called "David Greybeard." David has "an exceptionally calm disposition and an air of natural dignity," she says.

But, she said, she found that chimps show as much individuality as man himself. Thus, among the 60 to 100 chimps in the reserve there are excitable chimps and crusty, cranky old males.

'Panting Hoots'

Among the London-born girl's other findings:

1. Chimps can influence one another's behavior by vocal calls of which they have a variety of about 20, including a kind of "panting hoot."

2. They lead a complex social life, which includes a long period of care for the young and "close family ties."

3. Female beauty is not necessarily the motivation to boy-meets-girl among chimps. One of the most popular lady chimps on the reserve is—at least by human standards — an ugly gal with a twisted nose, who has up to 10 suitors courting her at a time.

British Bandits Grab Bermondsey Bankroll

London (AP)— Six bandits with stockings pulled over their heads snatched 52,000 pounds ($145,000) from a bank in suburban Bermondsey Thursday.

The raiders, one with a pistol, the others waving clubs, sprang forward when a cashier opened the vault 10 minutes before the bank was to open. They excaped in a small truck.

Bishop Stresses 'Vital, Dynamic Theology'

"If Methodism is to be renewed in this rapidly changing world, it must emphasize the importance of a vital and dynamic theology," a Texas Methodist bishop said Thursday night.

"It must also refuse to surrender its compassionate concern for all people — individuals, families and groups," Bishop William C. Martin of the Dallas-Forth Worth area said.

Bishop Martin, bishop of the former Omaha and Kansas-Nebraska areas from 1939 to 1948, spoke at a public worship here in St. Paul Methodist Church opening the South Central Jurisdiction Council meeting.

Around 60 members of the council are representing eight states and 17 annual conferences of the Methodist Church at the meeting, the first such ever held in Nebraska.

"We believe that the world is in desperate need of the kind of warmhearted enthusiasm for a committed and serving church that characterized the early Methodists," Bishop Martin, who is retiring from the episcopacy in June, told the delegates.

"In little more than 200 years Methodism has grown from a mere handful of Christians whose hearts had been strangely warmed until today there is a membership of more than 19 million," the bishop said. He estimated the total constituency of the Methodist movement is approximately 40 million people.

Earlier, eight Methodist bishops and two officers of the jurisdiction were made honorary admirals in the Nebraska Navy by Gov. Frank Morrison at a dinner welcoming those attending the meeting.

Receiving the honorary admiralships were Bishop W. Kenneth Pope, Arkansas area; Bishop Martin; Bishop Paul E. Martin, Houston area; Bishop Eugene Slater, Kansas area; Bishop Aubrey G. Walton, Louisiana area; Bishop Eugene M. Frank, Missouri area; Bishop W. Angie Smith, Oklahoma-New Mexico area, and Bishop Paul V. Galloway, San Antonio area. Dr. Virgil D. Morris, executive secretary of the jurisdicton from Oklahoma City, and Dr. Robert E. Goodrich, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Dallas and president of the council, also received the honor.

Council business sessions were scheduled Friday at St. Paul's.

Commissioners Add To Road Program, Give It Approval

Lancaster County Commissioners Thursday adopted with a few additions the $1.5 million 1964 county road program proposed by County Engineer Hugh Dillon.

The changes, which include graveling and grading two miles of 84th St. from O St. south, will require $15,500 additional revenue.

However, County Board Chairman William Grossman indicated that the changes would not necessitate an increase in the mill levy.

Other additions to the proposed program included graveling three-fourths mile of North 40th St. south of Superior St., upgrading of Burnham St. to withstand heavy truck traffic, and extending the Martell extension proposed by Dillon one-tenth of a mile.

A bridge below Dam 14 near Emerald will also be enlarged from 10 by 10 by 75 feet to 12 by 12 by 65.

Several farmers in the area had protested at the public hearing last week that the bridge would have to be enlarged in order to prevent flooding their land.

The bridge change will be financed by federal and not county funds.

Dillon's program which called for a record total cost of $1,432,833 included $426,300 for new road construction, $478,633 for maintenance, $451,000 for labor and supervision, and $76,900 for new equipment.

'U.S. Jewess Shot Nazi Before Dying'

Frankfurt, Germany (UPI) —A survivor of Hitler's Auschwitz concentration camp testified Thursday that an American Jewish woman killed the camp security chief with his pistol moments before she was put to death in a gas chamber disguised as a shower room.

"That American lady shot him right in front of the gas chamber," Dr. Otto Wolken told judges hearing war crime charges against 21 former Gestapo guards and a turncoat inmate.

"She did us a wonderful favor," Wolken said. "The atmosphere was much better after that. The rabbit hunts (in which guards shot inmates forced to run "like rabbits") stopped and the prisoners were not treated as brutally any more."

Reprisals

But Wolken testified that the Nazis took immediate reprisals, firing indiscriminately into the camp. "We had 13 dead," he said.

Wolken said the heroic woman was a member of a group of Jews with American passports or visas whom the Nazis sent to Auschwitz instead of to Switzerland for promised refuge.

They were herded into the "shower" room and ordered to undress by security chief Schillinger, Wolken said. The woman warned her group not to obey the order.

"The woman grabbed Schillinger's pistol and shot him," he said. "Then the American Jews were killed."

Wolken then turned to the 22 defendants in the prisoners' dock.

"Maybe these gentlemen from the SS can verify this," he said. The defendants turned away.

Support

The International Auschwitz Committee, a group of survivors based in Brussels, supports Wolken's account of how Schillinger died. Its published records show that Schillinger and another SS officer were shot on Oct. 23, 1943, while trying to gas Jews who had been promised asylum in Switzerland.

One of the judges hearing Wolken's testimony, a woman, wept when he described how children marched into the gas chamber with smiles on their faces and their chins up.

"I remember this little naked boy just before they killed him," Wolken said. "He told me, 'I'm not afraid. It's so terrible here. I'm sure it will be better in heaven.' "

Alles Company Low Bidder On Meadow Lane Job

Ken Alles Construction Company submitted the apparent low bid of $182,094 on the general contract for the new addition to the Meadow Lane Elementary School, a School Board spokesman said.

The apparent low bid on the mechanical contract was $49,666 submitted by Wentz Plumbing & Heating Co., while the apparent low bid on the electrical contract was $25,690 submitted by the Commonwealth Electric Co.

Final decision on the bids probably will be made at the March 10 School Board meeting.

'Barry Keenan Considered Hope's Boy Before Sinatra'

Los Angeles (AP)— Barry Keenan's first choice for a kidnap victim was an old school chum, Bob Hope's son, Tony, before he settled on Frank Sinatra Jr., an FBI agent testified Thursday.

And another FBI man said defendant Joseph Amsler told him the original plan was to abduct young Sinatra the night of Nov. 22 in Los Angeles; but the assassination of President Kennedy so upset John Irwin, the third defendant, that the plan was called off.

The government accuses the trio of kidnaping the 20-year-old son of the famed singer from a Lake Tahoe motel room last Dec. 8 and holding him for $240,000 ransom.

FBI Agent Emmett Murphy was the witness who brought the Hope name into the U.S. District Court trial, now in its third week.

Under cross-examination, Murphy said that Keenan told him he abandoned the idea "because Bob Hope was such a good American and had done so much in entertaining the troops."

Tony, 23, is one of four children adopted by Hope and his wife, Dolores. A graduate of Georgetown University, Tony now is a law student at Harvard.

Under further cross-examination Murphy also said Keenan told him that:

1. He read books on the Lindbergh kidnaping and also books written by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director.

2. He put $75 of the ransom money in a church poor box.

3. He inadvertently put a box in the back seat of the car with "Mr. Sinatra" crayoned on it in large letters. The car, the box and young Sinatra, Keenan added, passed through two police blockades, the agent said.

Reasons

Agent Robert E. Russell testified that Amsler told him Keenan picked Sinatra as a victim because 1. Frank Sr. had access to large sums of money; 2. Frank Jr. seemed level-headed enough not to cause any trouble; 3. Frank Jr., was a lone-wolf type.

A two-page statement, signed by Amsler and witnessed by three FBI men, was read into the record. It closely followed young Sinatra's version of the incident.

A signed statement in which Keenan admitted the kidnaping was read into evidence.

10 Nebraskans To Be Aboard USS Topeka For 6 Months

Aboard USS Topeka — Nebraska will be widely represented when this guided missile cruiser joins the U. S. Seventh Fleet in the Far East sometime in March. Ten members of the crew will be Nebraskans whose experience in the Navy ranges from a few months to 12½ years.

They represent all of Nebraska from Scottsbluff on the west to Lincoln on the east, Valentine on the north to Hastings on the south.

Recently out of Navy yard overhaul, the Topeka has been putting many sea miles behind her as Captain W. J. Ruhe shakes the accumulated kinks out of engineering, operations and gunnery.

Overseas, the Nebraska sailors will be based in Japan. But their potential operating area will range as far south as the Indian Ocean, with visits to major ports in between — such as Hong Kong, Taiwan, Manila, perhaps ports in Vietnam, and possibly a trip to Australia and India.

Barring international complications, the Nebraskans will head for home after six months. They are:

Seaman Joseph C. Martin Jr., of Lincoln, a lithographer in the Topeka print shop. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Martin of 4525 South 49th, Lincoln.

Fireman Apprentice Marvin H. Hill of Pleasant Dale, a machinist mate striker in the forward engine room. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Hill of Pleasant Dale.

Missile Fire Control Technician Third Class Arthur A. Halleen of Wausa, whose job is maintaining the radar which guides the Terrier missiles to their target. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Halleen of Wausa.

Seaman Neal L. Anthony of Scottsbluff, is working in the Boatswains mate rate. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mackrill of Scottsbluff.

Seaman Apprentice Randall O. Feiling of Plainview, a gunners mate striker whose station is in one of the five inch gun mounts. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Feiling of Plainview.

Chief Boiler Tender Chester D. Goodwin, formerly of Hershey, whose home now is in Chula Vista, Calif., is in charge of Topeka's boiler repair shop. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley M. Goodwin of Hershey.

Fireman Apprentice Robert W. Murphy of Norfolk, a machinist mate striker in the forward boiler room. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Murphy, who farm near Norfolk.

Electronics Technician Second Class Robert D. Rose of Ayr, whose job is helping keep the radio equipment of the Topeka repaired. He is the son of Mrs. Geraldine E. Rose of Ayr. Since his marriage last August his home address has been in Long Beach, Calif.

Seaman Apprentice Kenneth D. Ayers of Valentine, who was on leave when this story was written and hence was not available for an interview.

Machinist Mate Fireman Apprentice Dennis J. Pohl, from Bruno has spent 16 months in the Navy working mainly in the engineering spaces. His parents own a 360 acre farm outside of Bruno.

La Selle Gilman NU Grad, Dies Of Lung Cancer

Petaluma, Calif. (AP)— La Selle Gilman, 56, who covered the Sino-Japanese war as a correspondent, and later was city editor of the China Press in Shanghai, died at his home at Tomales Wednesday night. He had been under treatment for six months for lung cancer.

Gilman, a graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism, was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked on Dec. 7, 1941. He reported World War II in the Pacific for Reuters News Agency and the Honolulu Advertiser.

After the war he worked on several San Francisco area newspapers.

Continue Hunt For Missing Yankton Man

Yankton, S.D. (AP)—A search continued Thursday for Richard Lubbers, 26, of Yankton reported missing after renting a boat for a Missouri River fishing outing.

Sheriff Ed Sampson said Lubbers had rented the boat at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday from the Aten Bait Shop on the Nebraska side of the river below Gavins Point Dam.

When the Yankton man failed to return by 5:30 p.m. the woman in charge of the shop became concerned and notified Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sieverding, who operate Ed's Bait Shop near the Gavins Point Fish Hatchery.

Sieverding later located the boat along the pilings east of the Aten resort. It was upright in the water, but there was no fishing gear or life jacket in the boat. Lubbers reportedly had been wearing a life jacket.

The sheriff at Hartington and Sheriff John Riibe at Hartington, Neb., were notified and they and others joined in the organized search.

Stock Mart Dips After Early Rally

New York (AP) — The stock market staged only a brief celebration of the enactment of the $11.5-billion tax cut and then it slid downward to a moderate loss Thursday. Trading was fairly active.

It was a classic example of "selling on good news." One of the main props under the market for more than a year has been expectation of the tax cut, analysts noted. Now that it has become a reality, the question became, "What else is new?"

The Dow Jones industrial average surged to 801.37 in the first half hour but that was the highest point. As the average continued to back away, traders began to give up the idea that it could close at 800 or better, and they sold, brokers said.

At the close, the Dow industrials were off 2.34 to 797.04.

Had this average charged above the 800 line and shown enough strength to stay there to the end, it was felt in some quarters that the accomplishment would draw in more of the public and prestage a rally.

Aerospace issues held some substantial gains due to contract news. Rubbers stayed up. But early gains by many groups were wiped out.

Among losers were Big Three motors, oils, airlines, cigarettes, electronics, coppers and office equipments.

Of 1,346 issues traded, 480 rose and 608 fell. Highs for 1963-64 totaled 73 and lows 16.

Volume was 5.44 million compared with 5.35 million shares Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.0 to 296.8 with industrials off 1.8, rails up .2 to a historic high and utilities down .6.

Seven of the most-active declined, 6 advanced and 2 were unchanged.

Airlines, big gainers in recent weeks, were clobbered. Delta lost 2⅞, Eastern 2⅛, United 1 and Pan American 1⅝.

Big Three motors and most of the leading steels confined their losses to fractions. American Motors gained ⅛.

IBM lost 9, Polaroid 5⅞, Xerox 2, Control Data 2¾ and Eastman Kodak 1⅝.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly lower.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds declined.

Old Crop Wheat Declines Sharply

Chicago (AP) — Prices of old crop wheat futures broke sharply again Thursday on the Board of Trade without showing any sign of mustering a rallying volume of support. The March delivery was down more than four cents at the close.

Other grains and soybeans were mostly easier in rather light an mixed trading which reflected a virtual absence of demand more than strong pressure.

Brokers said there seemed to be some expectation that wheat tenders would be fairly liberal but that a more important consideration was a belief the sales to Russia and other Communist nations probably would not now materialize as had been expected.

At the close, wheat was 4½ cents a bushel lower to ⅛ higher, March $2.11-10½; soybeans 1 cent lower to ¼ higher, March $2.63¼-¼; corn ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, March $1.18¼-⅜; oats 1⅛-½ lower, March 65⅜ cents; rye unchanged to ¾ lower, March $1.35½-¾.

New Census Stirs Trouble In Nigeria

Lagos, Nigeria (AP) — A major political storm may be brewing in Nigeria over new census figures for Africa's most populous nation.

Riot police used tear gas to disperse more than 1,000 University of Ibadan students who tried to march into Lagos to protest the results of the population count announced Monday. The students chartered buses from their university in the western regional capital but were stopped at the outskirts of Lagos late Wednesday by steel-helmeted police.

Dr. Michael Okpara, leader of the National Convention of Nigerian Citizens, which rules this West African nation in coalition with the Northern People's Congress, said he would accept the census figures only after a meticulous check. The Minority Action Group Party already has rejected the count.

Feudalistic

Students in IFE University in the western region issued a statement Thursday which said the census results "are clearly indicative of the unholy intention of an ignorant and feudalistic few to rule Nigeria forever."

Protest meetings were held Wednesday night in Enugu, the eastern region capital.

Official "preliminary" figures place the total population at 55,653,821, which would make this country the world's eighth most densely populated.

The uproar is not so much over the total population, but over regional figures. Nigeria has three main regional-tribal divisions.

The northern region, as large as the other two combined, sprawls across the top of the country on the lower fringes of the Sahara. The position of its conservative Northern People's Congress Party is based on population.

Leaders in the east and west indicate they believe the northern population figure was inflated. The coastal eastern and western regions, comparatively industrialized and progressive, have long resented the parliamentary control held by the north on the basis of larger population.

Status Quo

The new figures would maintain the status quo and many in the east and west —particularly university students — reacted to the prospect of years of political frustration ahead. Most neutral observers believe the north would keep its population lead under any census but that the birth rate in coastal regions has been much greater in the past decade.

The new count gives the north 29,777,986; the western region 12,388,646; the eastern region 10,278,500; and the newly created midwest region 2,533,337.

The latest census — actual counting was done in three days last October — was necessary because a count made in 1962 was discarded as grossly inaccurate. It indicated a population of 40 million.

Census takers in this country do not have an easy job.

Colwell 'Giving Thought' To Race In 3rd District

By The Associated Press

Dr. William Colwell, Hay Springs rancher, said Thursday he is "giving serious consideration" to a bid for the Third District congressional nomination as a Democrat.

Dr. Colwell said he probably will make a decision by Saturday, when Third District Democrats are scheduled to gather in North Platte for a meeting called by Gordon J. Keeley of Alliance, chairman of a committee for the election of a Democrat to Congress from the Third District.

Colwell has been mentioned for the post, along with Gerald Whelan of Hastings and David Heffelbrougher of Red Cloud.

Colwell said he has been urged by a number of persons to become a candidate.

The Democratic nominee would be bidding for the seat now held by Republican Rep. David Martin of Kearney.

Dr. Colwell is a member of the President's National Agriculture Advisory Commission for Agriculture; chairman of the Governor's Public Relations Committee for Agriculture; president of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association, and a member of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association and Sandhills Cattleman's Association.

He formerly taught at the University of North Carolina.

Opponents Claim Plan 'Too Costly'

. . . Hearing Nears

Washington (UPI)—Opponents charged Thursday the proposed Nebraska Mid-State Reclamation District costs too much in proportion to the land to be irrigated.

"The government has a better place to put $84 million than here," according to Tom Tye, attorney for the Mid-State Irrigators, Inc., (MSI), and Charles W. Eubank, a member of the organization's board of directors of Kearney.

They were here to arrange presentation of opposition testimony when a House Interior Subcommittee holds public hearings March 2-3 on the long-sought project. Committee staff members believed this would be the first time unfavorable witnesses appeared at a Washington hearing on Mid-State.

Tye and Eubank said the more than 1,000 members of their organization represent 217,840 acres, 39.6034 per cent of the 550,000-acre district. They said the committee has sent petitions signed by 1,900 opponents representing 209,636 acres.

The Interior Department in the past has recommended Mid-State as feasible, but MSI disputes this. Irrigators in the district would pay $9.31 per acre, Tye said, compared to the $3.63 paid by those in the nearby Tri-County project and the present irrigation cost of $3.50 to $5 by farmers who already have installed pumps within the boundaries of the proposed district.

Eubank also called attention to Nebraska law which requires a popular vote every 10 years on the continuation of a district like Mid-State, beginning in 1971. It therefore is possible the district could be disbanded in seven years, he noted.

He contended there is no danger that the area will run short on water. Some residents in the Gibbon vicinity have had to fill in their basements with sand because they cannot keep out the seeping water, Eubank said.

Eubank said he donated money for the Mid-State study back in the early 1940s.

"But since then I've added enough pumps to irrigate all the irrigable acres and just about everyone else has, paying for them with our own money," he said. "Practically all the irrigable land has been brought under irrigation in the last 15 years."

Interior Department reports on Mid-State were scheduled to be submitted to the committee by Monday. But it was understood the new reports would raise the project's estimated total cost from the $81 million of last year to $84 million, and require repayment of $43 million to the federal government.

The Senate passed the authorization bill last year.

Two Men Lauded For Fighting Fire At New School

Two Lincoln men were praised by Asst. Fire Chief Curtis Kadlick for trying to extinguish a fire late Thursday afternoon at Lake View School, 1200 West O.

Kadlick said Delany Hoffmann of 8125 Sanborn Drive and William Fuhrman of 5202 Walker Ave. saw the flames in a plastic-covered wooden frame lean-to. The two men pulled the flaming framing away from the building, possibly saving the new school from more serious damage, Kadlick said.

The chief said the fire caused considerable damage to the new addition to the school.

Damaged were canvas tarps, bricks and insulation in the west side of the building, Kadlick reported. He said the fire was possibly set by children playing with matches.

Douglas Co. Had 48 Fatal Traffic Accidents In '63

Douglas County, the state's most populous county, recorded 48 fatal traffic accidents during 1963 resulting in 52 deaths and 3,776 injuries, the State Accident Records Bureau said in its annual report.

Sarpy County, which adjoins Douglas, recorded but 11 fatal accidents, but they resulted in 17 deaths and 398 injuries.

Lancaster County, the state's second largest in terms of population, had 14 fatal accidents resulting in 15 deaths and 1,432 injuries.

Dawson County recorded 11 fatal accidents resulting in 22 deaths and 243 injuries. Lincoln County had 10 accidents resulting in 12 deaths.

As a whole, Nebraska had 290 fatal accidents resulting in 349 deaths and 13,780 injuries during 1963.

HOOVER HAS GRIP ON LIFE

New York (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, at 89, was on the road to recovery Thursday from his third serious illness in the past two years.

Doctors said he was able to sit up in bed for solid food.

Hoover became seriously ill Sunday with a respiratory infection — associates called it pneumonia — and a bleeding kidney.

The 31st president had undergone surgery in August 1962 for removal of a cancerous tumor of the intestinal tract and last June suffered anemia from intestinal bleeding.

"For a man of 89, he has a great grip on life," said Neil McNeil, a close associate.

McNeil reported that Hoover sat in bed with a good appetite Thursday and that as his nurse approached with scrambled eggs, the former president said, "Faster, faster."

2 Bombs Thrown At British Envoy, Mate In Panama

Panama (AP) — Two homemade bombs hurled from a passing car exploded early Thursday on the veranda of the British embassy residence, where Ambassador and Mrs. Randle Reid-Adam sat sipping a nightcap before retiring.

The bombs exploded harmlessly, but startled the couple. The tear gas and Molotov cocktail bombs had been fashioned from pop bottles.

Elsie Squires, embassy second secretary, said the bombing incident defied explanation. The ambassador and his wife had been dinner guests of Maj. Gen, Robert J. Fleming Jr., governor of the Canal Zone. But Miss Squires said she did not believe that had anything to do with the bombing.

Fleming has been the target of strong criticism from the Panama press and leftist extremists since Canal Zone rioting last month brought a rupture in U.S.-Panamanian relations.

Brown Asking Congressional Action On Boxcar Shortage

State Railway Commission Chairman Joseph Brown Thursday called for congressional action to ease Nebraska's recurring railroad boxcar shortage problem.

Brown said he has relayed his proposal to Nebraska's five-member Washington delegation and that it is in accord with his thinking. He said he hopes something can come out of this session of Congress.

"Something has to be done," Brown said. "This problem has gone on long enough. The only way it can be solved or even eased is through congressional action."

Specifically, Brown proposed hiking per diem costs charged railroads for using boxcars belonging to other lines. He said this would probably go a long way toward forcing railroads to build their own boxcars and thus alleviate a national shortage.

'Too Low Now'

"Per diem costs are too low now," Brown said in an interview. "In fact, I think they're something like $3 per day. This price means generally it's cheaper for railroads to borrow cars rather than build their own, thus the shortage."

Brown suggested the charge be made comparable to the interest on the investment in the car plus a nominal depreciation fee.

"This would increase the cost of borrowing cars to a point where it would be cheaper for railroads to build their own," he said.

The veteran commissioner, who seeks re-election this November, said the shortage crisis, which pops up in Nebraska and other Midwest states in late spring and fall, is not entirely the fault of operating railroads. Other contributing factors, he said, include poor shipping facilities and movement of government-stored grain at harvest time.

Brown suggested the federal government might help remedy the problem by leaving stored Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) grain in place until the middle of winter. He said this would result in many boxcars being released at harvest time.

Hardest Hit

Nebraska, Brown said, is hardest hit when bountiful winter wheat and milo crops are produced. He said elevators in the state just cannot handle the huge volume of grain harvested.

"As a result," he said, "large quantities are piled on the ground and the producer and elevator operator are both at the mercy of the weather." More than once, Brown recalled, large amounts of valuable grain have been destroyed by inclement weather conditions.

"The elevator operators and farmers are both our concern," Brown said.
